

If Candidate, Humphrey to Run in State

Expects to Make Announcement of Plans in Late Fall

Milwaukee — Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota says he likes primary campaigns too much to pass up Wisconsin, if he decides to run for the Democratic presidential nomination. If he does enter the state race, he wants the support of Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.).

That was the gist of two interviews, one in Madison Monday and one in Milwaukee today, the senator gave during a brief visit to the state. He said he was here to test his strength preliminary to any announcement he might make concerning his possible candidacy for the nomination.

Helped Proxmire

"Sen. Proxmire ought to support Sen. Humphrey—I've been his friend," Humphrey said today. This apparently was a reference to the campaigning the Minnesotan did in Wisconsin for the election of Proxmire as senator.

Humphrey also said in the Milwaukee interview that he would welcome the support of Gov. Nelson. Both Proxmire and Nelson have been linked to possible favorite son status in next April's presidential preference primary.

"I'm a little short on money," he said.

Iowa Family Held Captive By Escapees

Anamosa, Iowa — Famed Iowa poet Paul Engle and his family were held at knife-point for eight hours in their summer home by two men's reformatory escapees late yesterday.

Engle, 50, his wife, and their daughters, Sara, 14, and Mary Evelyn, 18, were not harmed, although they were bound with plastic-covered wire before the prisoners fled in Engle's station wagon.

Authorities said Donald Sills, 25, and Larry Morrison, 21, both of Des Moines, walked away from prison farm No. 1 northwest of here yesterday afternoon and made their way to the nearby Stone City home of Engle.

The fugitives apparently got into the house and secured some kitchen knives before confronting Mrs. Engle, who was ironing clothes.

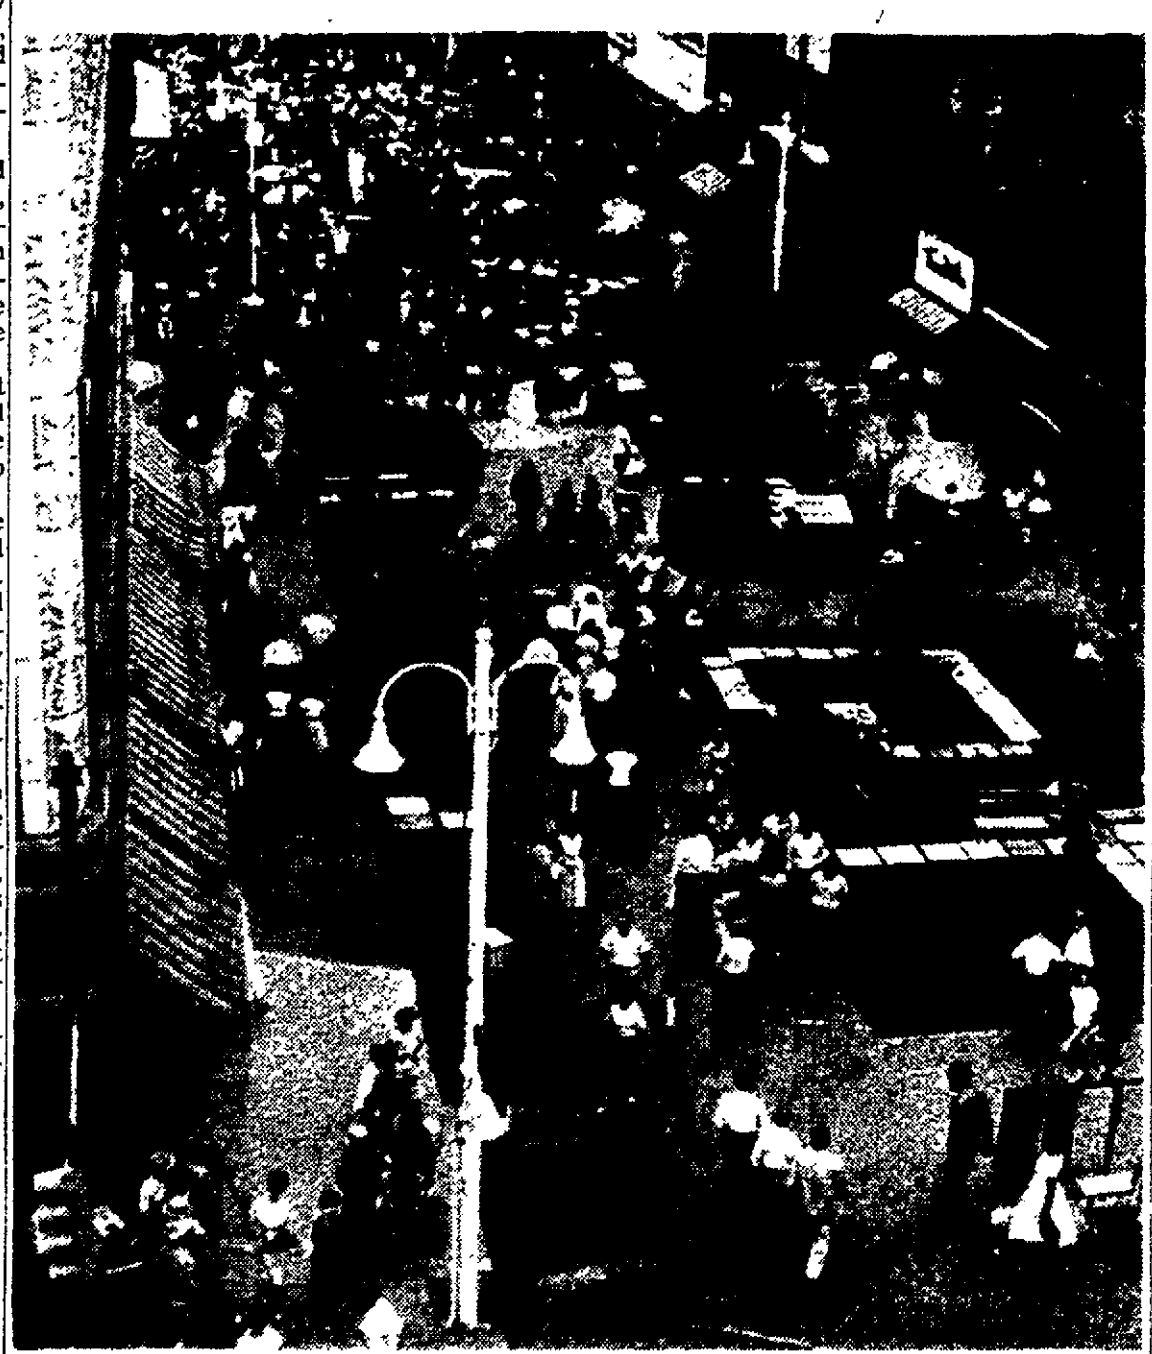

A short time later the younger Engle girl arrived home from horseback riding.

Engle, a professor and head of the Creative Writers workshop at the State University of Iowa, and Mary came home later from Iowa City together and were accosted by the fugitives.

The fugitives avoided a roadblock at Springville, nine miles west of here, and abandoned the car in town. Sills, who was serving seven years for false uttering of a check, hid under a pickup truck but was quickly taken into custody.

A search of the Mount Vernon area was under way today for Morrison.

Most of West Europe Hails Ike-Khrushchev Exchange

The Pedestrian Mall idea advanced several years ago for Appleton's College avenue business district is getting a 45-day trial in Toledo, Ohio, whose heart-of-the-downtown streets are very similar in design to Appleton's. The Toledo mall, shown above, drew some 40,000 people over the weekend. It includes slides, swings, greenery, penguins from the zoo.

Toledo Lures Shoppers With Downtown Pedestrian Malls

Uses Rivals' Tricks

TOLEDO, Ohio — Downtown Toledo, fighting to hold its retail business from the lure of shopping centers in the outskirts, is using some of the tricks of its suburban rivals.

Monday, the city began a 45-day trial of four downtown pedestrian malls, complete with grass, trees, flowering shrubs, blooming flowers, benches and a playground for the kiddies.

And to top what the shopping centers offer, the malls include an elongated pool containing five penguins from the Toledo zoo and at other spots statuary from the Toledo museum of art.

All this where only four days ago were only asphalt, cement, brick and the busy bustle of vehicular traffic.

(The idea of pedestrian malls has been suggested for Appleton's College avenue business district by Victor L. Gruen and Associates, the H. C. Prange company architectural and engineering consultant.)

City officials, mapping plans for resurfacing part of the avenue next year, have said they don't believe the mall idea will materialize in their lifetime, but may come some day.

People Like It

Thousands of Toledoans responded as the mall officially opened Monday, milling through the 4-block area, and

Russian May Launch Visit To U.S. Sept. 15

Soviet Premier to Decide but Date Believed Definite

Washington — It now appears that Nikita S. Khrushchev will begin his momentous visit to the United States on Sept. 15.

State department officials said today it is safe to assume the Soviet premier will arrive here that day. They said they could not officially confirm that date, however, since the final word has to come from Khrushchev himself.

Where Khrushchev will land in the United States depends on the type of airplane he will use, officials said.

It is expected in any case, that he will come directly to Washington.

Informants said that since Khrushchev is an official guest of the United States, his visit to Washington would by all means precede an eventual appearance elsewhere, such as the United Nations General assembly in New York.

May Address UN

This does not rule out the possibility that the Russian leader may address the general assembly after his Washington visit.

President Eisenhower mentioned only September in announcing yesterday that Khrushchev would come here, and that later in the fall he would return to the Russian's visit.

In any event the Khrushchev-Eisenhower exchange of visits raises U.S.-Soviet diplomacy to the summit level, whether or not it results in a formal summit conference on a broader scale.

Reports from Moscow said the Russian premier is expected to bring along his wife, son and daughter.

With most details still uncertain, there has been no announcement whether Mrs. Eisenhower will accompany her husband to Europe.

The Khrushchev announcement overshadowed Eisenhower's plans for an earlier series of meetings with British, French and West German heads of government. These could bear importantly on his talks with Khrushchev.

Some Capitals Fear They May be Ignored in Deal By Soviet Union and U. S.

BY DENNIS NEEDL

London — (AP) — Most west Europeans today cheered the impending exchange of visits by President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Khrushchev as a near miraculous melting in the cold war ice.

The general enthusiasm was tempered in some capitals by a fear that the two super-powers would work out a settlement in which the lesser nations had no voice.

Eisenhower's pre-Khrushchev tour of the major west European capitals was designed to reassure the allies.

One West German newspaper warned the meetings would be "pregnant with danger" for Germany; and an Italian newspaper expressed fear the two powers might "carve up" spheres of influence. The conservative L'Aurore of Paris regretted that the negotiations would "pass over Europe's head."

But the West German government officially welcomed the exchange of visits. Italian Premier Antonio Segni said "every step, every contact which contributes to the clarification of relations between east and west... can only be viewed with great sympathy."

Informants in Geneva said the French government approved Eisenhower-Khrushchev exchange as something that would stall off the Soviet threat to Berlin.

Will See U. S. Power

West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's only comment was a one-sentence expression of hope that Khrushchev's visit to the United States would impress him with "the strength and determination of America to secure peace and freedom in the world."

Diplomats in Geneva said the United States has assured its chief western allies they will be kept fully informed of developments and consulted on any specific agreements which may be proposed.

But one veteran ambassador in Moscow said Khrushchev obviously was intent on a deal with the United States and considered the other western powers relatively unimportant.

"I believe that Khrushchev is prepared to go farther to have a 2-power deal than he would be with any combination of western powers," he declared.

The British were delighted at developments, with no talk of being left out.

Favors Personal Talks

Prime Minister Harold Macmillan declared: "I have always believed that tension in the world between the east and west can largely be resolved by personal contacts and discussions."

"Yes, it's a homer," shouted Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express in an 8-column front page headline. "Miracle of 1959," said the conservative daily mail. "End of frozen mitt," said the leftist Daily Mirror.

Most British newspapers claimed Macmillan's February trip to Moscow had blazed the trail.

Sweden's socialist Premier Tage Erlander said the decision to get together was "a great victory for reason." Another socialist, Danish Prime Minister H. C. Hansen, said it was a sign of "a sense of realities and a really political state of mind."

Road Not Easy

New Housing Bill Planned

Senate Group Votes Not to Try to Override Veto

Washington — The senate housing subcommittee today voted 5-4 against trying to override President Eisenhower's housing bill veto. It then set out to write new legislation.

Sen. John Sparkman (D-Ala), the subcommittee chairman, said he was confident the new bill would be close to the $1,375,000,000 one that the president rejected.

The group hoped to finish work on a new bill at a late afternoon session.

The three Republicans on the subcommittee and two Democrats, Sparkman and Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark), joined to defeat a motion by Sen. Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill) that a recommendation be made to override the veto. Douglas was backed by three other Democrats.

Once this decision was taken, the subcommittee settled down in what both sides said was an amicable spirit to vote on what should be put into a compromise measure.

The group did not decide this morning on such controversial items as the size of the urban renewal authorization or public housing.

Sparkman declared some public housing would be included. Eisenhower has asked for no new units.

Shall It Be Gunsmoke Or Joylight Street?

Winston-Salem, N.C. — The Gunsmoke street wrangle is headed for a showdown. The members of Bible Missionary church, located on Gunsmoke street, are unhappy about the street name and think Joylight would be better.

The folks on Maverick street like Gunsmoke and object to any change. They contend the church members don't live in the section and shouldn't have anything to say about street names.

The Forsyth county board commissioners decided to think over the matter.

Nixon Asks End of Racial Prejudice

Visits Site of Nazi Mass Executions During War

BY JOHN SCALI

Warsaw — Vice President Richard M. Nixon visited the site of mass executions during World War II today, then made a plea for the end of racial prejudice as he stood on the spot of Warsaw's destroyed Jewish ghetto.

He coupled his pleas with the warning there must never be another war because cities such as Warsaw would be destroyed.

Standing before the remains of a bombed-out building where Jews fought in their last bunker to resist "the almost indescribable suffering of the Jewish people in Poland and other countries," Nixon said:

Would End Prejudice

"As we move into what we hope will be a period of peace and of good will, whatever be our economic or social philosophies, we must all unite to fight against prejudice and racial hatred because here is what happens when such passions are released."

Earlier he went to Palmiry forest where he laid a wreath on the site of graves of 2,200 Poles slaughtered in Nazi mass executions early in World War II.

He laid a special wreath on the grave of Janusz Kuscinski, Poland's 10,000 meter run winner in the Los Angeles Olympic games in 1932.

The track star was one of the most noted victims buried at the spot about 13 miles north of Warsaw.

Among others who died there, American officials said, were Parliament Speaker Maciej Rataj and Mieczyslaw Niedzialkowski, socialist party leader and editor.

Okinawa Gets Set for Typhoon

Naha, Okinawa — Okinawa braced tonight for a hard blow from Typhoon Ellen, churning directly toward this U. S. military island with winds up to 135 miles an hour.

The U. S. Air Force flew most of its planes to Japan and the Philippines. U. S. Marines donned steel helmets, canteens and full packs, joking that it was for ballast when the high winds came. Jeep windshields were lowered.

Okinawan natives, who see the typhoons come year after year, remained calm.

NATO's Strength, Weakness Told In 4-Part Series

In the decade since it was founded, the North Atlantic Treaty organization has developed into a symbol of western unity and the chief military instrument of the defensive alliance.

Yet, how effective is NATO today as the sword and shield of western Europe? How much actual power stands behind the symbol?

The findings of AP newsfeatures writer Ben Price, just returned from an extensive tour of NATO installations, are wrapped up in a 4-part series starting in today's Post-Crescent on Page A-3.

Labor Tries to Draft Law, House Group Told

Washington — Rep. Graham A. Barden (D-NC) today accused representatives of organized labor of trying to "take over" the house labor committee in the drafting of labor control legislation.

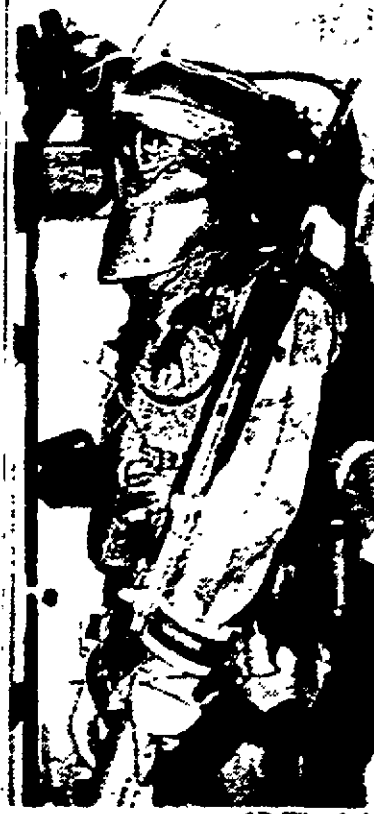

Barden, the labor committee chairman, made his charge before the house rules committee in asking that the house be permitted to debate the legislation with no gag or parliamentary strings.

Denouncing labor union representatives for what he called "reprehensible actions" during the committee's six weeks of bill-drafting sessions, Barden declared:

"Hoffa's folks and the AFL-CIO have sought to move in and take over the chairman-members to head hunters, ship and run the committee. Barden said:

"I have been many years in the house, but this has stand being pushed around been the most trying experience I have had in my life."

Earlier today, Republican congressional leaders urged President Eisenhower to use this country and is as vicious every available means in stirring up support for legislation.

Has to Prove Army Wrong, He's Alive

Albuquerque, N. M. — William H. Suggs' wife received two letters from the U. S. Army yesterday.

One offered condolences and one suggested she start processing insurance claims on the death of her husband, a retired army sergeant.

"I couldn't help feeling funny," the 33-year-old Suggs said. "It was like reading my own death warrant. It said I was officially dead—but I'm not."

"My wife panicked even though I had only left for work three hours before. I had to come home and convince her I was alive."

Suggs, a janitor, retired from the army in 1958 with a 100 per cent medical disability.

"The letters all gave my right name, my rank and my serial number," he said. "It was all right—all except for that one thing. I don't know how they got it mixed up."

"Man, I knew I was tired, but I'm not that tired."

Ammonia Fumes Rout Residents of Village

The fumes escaped from a defective hose and were carried through the community by a light wind.

West Orange, N. J. — Glenmont, the 23-room Victorian mansion of the late inventor Thomas A. Edison, has been dedicated as a national monument. Edison's son, former New Jersey Gov. Charles Edison, turned over the key to the Victorian residence yesterday to Assistant Sec. of the Interior Roger Ernst.

Trim Powers of Two Key State Officers

Budget Preparation Task Goes to Wallace Lemon; Jack Gibson Will Take Over New Responsibilities

Madison — Powers and duties of several of the state capitol's best known officers have been trimmed as a result of reorganization attending the creation of the new state department of administration.

The details were made public Monday in an announcement by Joe E. Nushbaum, the youthful advisor of Gov. Gaylord Nelson last week chosen as commissioner of the new agency.

The most significant change was the transfer of the responsibility for the preparation and analysis of the state budget from E. C. Giesseil, former budget and accounts director and now director of the new bureau of finance.

Wallace Lemon, head of the new division of management, will take over that job.

Budget Making
Giesseil is one of the best known officers in the statehouse, primarily because of his long connection with state budget making.

Nushbaum also trimmed the powers of two other ranking veterans of the state service who are under his new agency.

Ralph Culbertson, director of the bureau of engineering, will surrender some of his work to Jack Gibson, new director of the new bureau of general services, including the maintenance and operation of state buildings.

Gibson will also take over some of the work formerly

Little Progress Seen in Steel Strike Talks

Both Sides Blame Each Other for Prolonging Walkout

New York — Industry and union chiefs — each side blaming the other for prolonging the 3-week-old steel strike — have stepped up the pace of their negotiations.

The third joint session since the strike began was called for today. A joint session Monday failed to break the deadlock that has shut down almost 90 per cent of the nation's steel production.

Joseph F. Finnegan, director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service, is sitting in on the talks.

No Change
Asked if he noticed any change in the attitude of either side as a result of criticism of both industry and union by Sec. of Labor James P. Mitchell, Finnegan said:

"I didn't discern any particular impact. Both sides are aware of the statement."

Monday's joint negotiations had been arranged by Finnegan before Mitchell accused both sides Saturday of failing to make serious efforts to settle their contract dispute.

Finnegan said that an exchange of viewpoints Monday convinced both sides that another joint session today would be worthwhile.

Issue Statements
R. Conrad Cooper, top industry negotiator and executive vice president of the United States Steel corporation, and David J. McDonald, president of the striking United Steelworkers of America, issued public statements aimed at each other.

A major factor in the clash of words was the industry's contention that an increase in labor costs would force a rise in steel prices and spur inflation.

Cooper Comments
Cooper said:

"It will take more than mere meetings and discussions to end this strike. It will take a change of union attitude. It will take the emergence of a real desire by the union to end the strike without pursuing a course of further inflation."

McDonald said his union has been "seeking genuine collective bargaining from the very start of negotiations." He added: "If Mr. Mitchell's efforts can work that effect on industry, we are heartily in accord."

U. S. Assures Allies There'll Be 'No Deals'

Britain, France, West Germans Will Be Fully Consulted

Geneva — The United States has assured its chief western allies it will inform them fully of developments in the talks between President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev and will consult them on any specific agreements which may be proposed.

Eisenhower, officials say, is determined not to give Khrushchev any opening for a wedge between the United States and other countries in the western alliance.

Informed officials said the president, in his European swing before he meets Khrushchev, will assure British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, French President Charles de Gaulle and Chancellor Konrad Adenauer of West Germany that no deals will be made behind their backs.

He also wants to get their ideas about problems he and Khrushchev may take up and their suggestions for improving east-west relations.

Highly Desirable
Sec. of State Christian A. Herter, British Foreign Minister Selwyn Lloyd and Maurice Couve de Murville of France are reported to have agreed that, in view of their deadlock with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko over Berlin, the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks are highly desirable.

The ministers reason that they now can end their conference with Gromyko in failure and leave the Berlin crisis in a state of suspension, without the prospect of an imminent Soviet move against West Berlin which would create a new danger of war. The allies figure Khrushchev will want a good atmosphere for his American trip and will avoid unfriendly acts and beligerent talk.

Killed During Robbery

Police End Strange Double Life Of California Business Promoter

Los Angeles — Grand-scale business promoter by day . . . robber, posing as a policeman, by night . . .

That's the double life police say was lived by Daniel M. Snyder, ex-marine, ex-lover and a man about town.

His honest path by day and dishonest path by night came to light after police shot him to death during a drugstore holdup attempt Sunday night.

Officers said Monday of Snyder, 40, who wore elevator shoes to increase his 5-foot-7 stature:

He carried a briefcase stamped with the letters "L.A.P.D." — for Los Angeles Police department — in gold, desert.

He called himself Police Sgt. L. Wood and carried a detective sergeant's badge that was a remarkably accurate duplicate of the real thing.

Using briefcase and badge, he held up two markets and got away with $38,000.

By day he moved in high life financial circles and was regarded as a shrewd investor.

With apparently unlimited income. He had no criminal record.

He dressed like a Hollywood star and drove an $8,000 car.

"We were to be married this week," lamented Mrs. Hilda Lorr, 29, a divorcee.

She said she knew Snyder only as a "generous, kindly man and a brilliant business executive who was using borrowed money to invest in the future of California."

In the briefcase police found an incorporation certificate for a company Snyder recently formed with himself as president.

Said Detective Sgt. Thomas E. Dawson:

"He recently bought a large home and two adjoining lots from an artist in Cabazon, the desert gambling town."

"He was known in Cabazon as the man who was going to industrialize the community."

"L.A.P.D." — for Los Angeles Police department — in gold, desert. Snyder from descriptions of the man who had robbed two markets. He tripped a silent burglar alarm. Police arrived. Snyder bolted for the back door, then turned on the officers, gun in hand. They fired first.

"He was strange in many ways," said Mrs. Lorr. "Now I understand why."

Huge Radar Telescope Planned at Stanford

Keen Eye Will Peep Through Foggy Veil Worn by Coy Planet Venus

BY ALTON BLAKESLEE
Palo Alto, Calif. — A giant new radar telescope — second largest in the world — will be built here to explore secrets of space, sun and planets.

This huge eye can boldly peep through the foggy veil worn by Venus for revealing discoveries about that coy planet.

Scientists also hope it can tell how dusty the moon is, yield more facts about the sun, and accurately measure distances to other planets.

Might Miss Mars
Right now such distances are so uncertain that space travelers from earth might miss Mars by 200,000 miles.

Plans to build the giant eye were announced today by Stanford university and the Stanford Research Institute.

The telescope will have a huge, dish-shaped antenna 142 feet in diameter, and stand as tall as a 15-story building. In size, the antenna will be second only to the 250-foot dish at Jodrell Banks in England.

Jodrell mainly tunes in on radio noises coming from distant parts of the heavens, or radio signals from earth satellites.

The Stanford eye will primarily be used to broadcast radar signals, getting back their echoes, for valuable new explorations of the sun and its planetary family. Its radio transmitter will require a million-watt power supply. The antenna is designed for use at frequencies between 20 and 2,000 megacycles.

Construction is expected to be completed within a year, on a hill overlooking Stanford university. Costing $14 million, the program has support from the air force Cambridge Research center.

Anti-Freeze Cocktails Kill Five Indiana Farm Prisoners

Putnamville, Ind. — A weekend binge on highballs made from anti-freeze and soft drink powder brought death to five Indiana state farm prisoners yesterday and early today.

At least a dozen others were ill as a result of drinking the mixture.

Raymond Morton, 23, Indianapolis, serving 180 days for petty larceny, and Paul Durcho, 39, Hammond, Ind., serving 180 days for violation of probation, died in Long hospital in Indianapolis early today.

Carlos P. White, 28, Hammond, serving 180 days for drunken driving, and Lloyd Bowen, 19, Jeffersonville, Ind., under sentence to one year for petty larceny, died in the hospital within four hours after being taken there yesterday afternoon.

Jesse W. Tudder, 41, LaFayette, Ind., serving a 6-month sentence for drunken driving, died earlier yesterday, the first victim of the drink.

Farm Superintendent Walter Hock said the anti-freeze apparently was siphoned from drums stored in a garage at the state farm. He said the drums contained methyl alcohol or menthanol, commonly called wood alcohol.

Hock is trying to determine who smuggled the anti-freeze from the garage and whether some prisoners sold the mixture to others. He said some of the sick men apparently did not know they had drunk anti-freeze. They started becoming ill Sunday night.

Most Governors Agree Khrushchev Visit to U. S. Is 'Good Thing'

Notable Exceptions Include Chief Executives of Maine and Arizona

San Juan, Puerto Rico — The coming American visit of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev turned the attention of the nation's governors today to international affairs and away from their favorite domestic political topics.

With a couple of notable exceptions, Democratic and Republican governors agreed they would like to have Khrushchev take a searching look at democracy at work in their states.

Gov. Paul Fannin said he wouldn't move a step out of the way to bring the Soviet premier to Arizona. Gov. Clinton A. Clausen said he is not particularly interested in having Khrushchev visit Maine.

Some Advancement
But the majority of the governors, alive to the political aspects, felt some advancement of the prospects of world peace might come out of Khrushchev's visit in September and President Eisenhower's reciprocal trip to the Soviet Union later in the fall.

The political-minded governors laid aside party considerations to applaud the exchange of visits, which will take Eisenhower to a country where he remains one of the heroes of the last war of survival.

One of the latter, Gov. Orville L. Freeman of Minnesota, said he believes the American people might learn a great deal by intimate contacts with Khrushchev. Freeman is spending much of his time at this conference plugging the aspirations of Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey of his state for the 1960 Democratic nomination. Humphrey talked for seven hours with Khrushchev last December.

Learn Something
"Khrushchev might learn something about democracy if he came to Minnesota," Freeman added.

Democratic Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan, himself a receptive candidate for his party's nomination next year, said he would want to "talk turkey" with Khrushchev if the Russian premier visited his state.

A dozen other Democratic and Republican chief executives said, in effect, they hope Khrushchev looks closely at their states.

Funeral Today for World War I Flyer
Ashland — Funeral services will be held here today for William Bretting, World War I aviator credited with being the first to fly across Wisconsin from south to north.

A retired laundry operator, Bretting died Sunday at the age of 64.

In April of 1918 Bretting flew from Rockford, Ill., to Ashland with stops at Stevens Point and Phillips. He made the 500-mile trip in 10 hours of flying time.

He is survived by his widow and a brother, Lyman, also of Ashland.

Identifies Body
Chicago — Roy Moline of Kenosha, Wis., Monday identified the body of his mother, Mrs. Teresa Moline, 73, who was struck by a Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific train Sunday. Police said Mrs. Moline, living at a rest home here, walked past the railroad warning gates and stepped in front of the train.

Europe's Sword and Shield Face Growing Soviet Might

BY BEM PRICE

Paris —(U)— For 10 years now the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has been looked upon as the sword and shield of Europe.

NATO's defensive shield consists of ground troops with the task of stemming any Soviet attempt to overrun Europe quickly.

The sword is the retaliatory striking power of the west—nuclear or thermonuclear bombs delivered against the Soviet Union by manned aircraft or missiles.

U. S. Gen. Lauris Norstad, NATO's present military chief, once emphasized Europe's need for a strong defensive shield by observing that unless an aggression was soon halted, the allies would be faced with the impossible task of separating the invaders from the invaded as targets for nuclear weapons.

At the moment, the shield appears thin and the sword,

The North Atlantic Treaty Organization has been hailed as Europe's bulwark against Soviet aggression for 10 years. As NATO enters its second decade, just how much of a bulwark is it? Here is the first of four on-the-spot reports by a reporter who talked both to generals and plain GIs in NATO's heartland—central Europe.

while still sharp, is losing some of its edge compared with the powerful and increasingly modern forces arrayed against it.

Present Forces

A reporter's tour of NATO commands indicates that as matters now stand the allies possibly could muster 250,000 men on the ground next to the Iron Curtain though not all would be mobile forces equipped with up-to-date arms.

The immediately available air cover for central Europe now consists of somewhere between 1,500 and 2,000 jet aircraft of all types.

The allies also have a classified, but apparently limited, missile counter-punch, mostly in the short range category.

This allied force confronts a Soviet bloc in central Europe which western sources say has 1½ million men close to the borders of the free world and a 23,000 all-jet air force, most of which is concentrated in western Russia and the satellites.

In addition, the Soviets are said to be building large numbers of missile launching sites for their 700-mile range M103 missiles and their 1,500-mile intermediate range missiles in the satellite areas west of Russia.

mostly piston-engine types. But hopes were high.

Backed by French

In November, 1951, the French turned up at a NATO meeting in Rome happily pushing proposals for an international army.

Under the French plans all national forces would be organized into standard size divisions—13,000 men—and every one would have a standard pay and but one uniform.

Optimism ran high at the Rome meeting. The NATO council even set itself a goal of 100 battle fit divisions in Europe by the end of 1954. It was claimed at the end of 1951 that NATO had 23 combat-ready divisions at hand.

A bare five months later — May, 1952 — found SHAPE officers, now commanded by Gen. Alfred

Authors Tell of Well-Known Acquaintances in 2 Books

Two non-fiction selections at the Appleton Public library treat well-known figures known by the book authors.

In "High Tension," Hugh Baillie, former president of the United Press, tells of the stories behind the stories which could not be revealed in his years as an active reporter and newsmen.

Included are accounts of interviews and talks with Hitler, Mussolini, De Gaulle, Peron and Adenauer and of events such as the Nuernberg trials and Korean conflict by a reporter who was there to cover them.

Critical memoirs of famous friends of author Max Eastman's make up "Great Companions." Among the companions included are Albert Einstein, Ernest Hemingway, Edna Millay, E. W. Scripps, Leon Trotsky, Sigmund Freud, Bertrand Russell, George Santayana, Charlie Chaplin and John Dewey.

More Like Fiction
A non-fiction book which may read more like fiction is the "The Great Imposter" by Robert Crichton, about the careers of Ferdinand Waldo Demara.

An imposter in the truest sense of the word, Demara has posed as a Trappist monk, law student, zoology graduate, cancer researcher, college professor of psychology and philosophy, assistant warden of a Texas prison and surgeon-lieutenant in the Royal Canadian navy—playing his part to the extent of successfully performing major surgery as a medical officer of the destroyer Cayuga.

Robert Dahl describes his own experience as a former mental patient in "Breakdown," called by one psychiatrist the best picture he has ever seen of a developing psychosis. Dahl is now a regional director of the Indiana Association for Mental Health. New do-it-yourself books.

which now seem to be covering nearly every field, are "How to Get Rich Buying Stocks" by Economist Ira U. Cobleigh, and "How to Outsell the Born Salesman" by William W. Frank and Charles L. Lapp.

Other Non-Fiction

Other non-fiction books include "Emotional Problems of Childhood," a collection of 10 selections edited by Samuel Liebman, M. D.; "My God and My All," the life of St. Francis of Assisi by Elizabeth Goudge, and "Light in the Jungle" by Les B. Halliwell, who with his wife was a Seventh Day Adventist missionary in Brazil for more than 30 years.

Crime and mystery head the week's fiction: "The Exploits of Tommy Hambledon," a crime club selection by Manning Cole, includes three books—"Drink to Yesterday," "A Toast to Tomorrow" and "Ali as Uncle Hugo."

"The Beast" is a modern mystery by Edwin Carlisle Litsey.

For science-fiction fans, the library has "Encounter" by J. Hunter Holly and "The Involuntary Immortals" by Rog Phillips.

Governor Picks Head Of New Department

Madison —(U)— The executive office today announced the appointment of John Gibson, former research director in the governor's office, as acting head of the bureau of services, a new division of the Department of Administration.

The new bureau will assume all service functions previously handled by the bureau of purchases and the bureau of engineering.

Gibson's tenure as research director dated back to the administration of former Gov. Vernon Thomson.

Gruenther, grumbling about the withdrawal of a French division from the shield forces to fight rebels in Algeria.

At that time Gruenther had 15 divisions assigned to NATO and based in Germany — five each from France, the United Kingdom and the United States. Somehow those other eight divisions had not materialized.

What disturbed SHAPE was not so much the withdrawal of the French division but the precedent set in weakening the shield, in subordinating NATO interests to national interests.

France in 1952 had 100,000 men committed to the suppression of the Algerian revolt. Now France has 650,000 men in Algeria and the fighting continues.

Meanwhile, the technology of warfare was undergoing a steady evolution from non-nuclear to nuclear. The age of the guided missile and the battle-field rocket had arrived. Each can carry atomic warheads.

Atomic Age

In the dawning age of atom-toting missiles and rockets, the need for armies to increase their mobility and dispersion likewise increased. The day of the foot soldier, fighting in mass, was ending.

On June 6, 1959, Gen. Norstad said the allies greatest danger might spring from weaknesses "which would invite Soviet exploitation."

Norstad told a long meeting that the weakness of NATO might start a Soviet probing operation "which might well get out of hand."

Norstad went to Washington last spring to report on NATO's military posture to the U.S. congress. He said the 21 1-3 divisions now assigned to NATO were not enough, that he needed a minimum of 30 divisions, equipped with atomic weapons and more missiles.

When NATO was born the sesse 21 1-3 combat effective divisions is open to debate.

The passing years, however, have seen some technical and logistical improvements in the military picture.

When NATO was born the aircraft detection radar operated 40 hours a week. Now the radar network scans the Iron Curtain around the clock. It still has a short range, reaching only to the Russian border. But gaps in the network have been plugged.

Once it took SHAPE commanders eight hours to reach a subordinate command. Now a radio and telephone system provides immediate contact.

A spiderweb of supply dumps containing a 90-day stockpile of combat needs has come into being. About 2,000 miles of a projected 3,600 mile gas and oil pipeline now exists.

All these developments, however urgently needed, do not in themselves defend central Europe, which is the heart of NATO.

Farm Wages Hit Record High in July

Wages paid by Wisconsin farmers to hired workers in July were the highest on record for any month, according to the federal-state crop reporting service for Wisconsin.

Reports from Wisconsin farmers indicate that the mid-year wage rates paid to hired workers have turned upward since the first of the year. Wages paid to farm workers by the month with board and room averaged $140 compared with the monthly rate of $130 with a house but no board. Farmers are paying wages averaging $7 a day board and room, $8.90 a day without board or room or $1.08 an hour without board or room.

The record-high wage rates are being paid at a time when many prices received for products sold are showing some weakness compared with a year ago. The index of all prices received for products sold by farmers is down 5 per cent from a year ago with lower prices received for milk, poultry, eggs, many crops and hogs. At the present time the purchasing

Better Home Lives Needed, Pastor States

Modern Prodigal Son Church's Problem, Rev. Engelman Says

Modern prodigal sons are leaving their Father's home for the far country today, and it is the task of the church to find out why, and take steps to rectify it.

Engelman

The pastor claimed the central theme of the parable of the prodigal son is the Father's love. "We must recognize that people today are leaving the Father's home, try to understand why, and help them to find themselves in relation to God."

"The prodigal son might have left home to seek independence, to escape from a dull existence, or because he may have honestly felt the abundant life was to be found in this direction," the Rev. Mr. Engelman said.

Heart Absent
"The modern prodigal might leave the Father's house if not with his feet, his heart," he said.

"Another route is the loss of vocational standards, when the faith becomes meaningless, and corrupt morals lie under the veneer of respectability," the pastor stated.

The Rev. Mr. Engelman, associate pastor of the First Methodist church, said in his Sunday sermon.

The parable pointed out that the father loved both his sons equally, just as our Father loves all of us, he said.

Temporary Order Denied in Suit on Driveway Work

Post-Crescent News Service
Green Bay — Circuit Judge E. M. Duquaine has denied a motion for a temporary injunction against Door county which would prohibit the county from using blacktopping equipment for work on private driveways.

The action was brought by residents of seven Door county townships who claimed private blacktopping has been going on.

Similar actions have been brought in Waupaca, Kewaunee and Manitowoc counties backed by the operating engineers union and private contractors.

Judge Duquaine denied the injunction motion until such time as both parties in the controversy present their arguments in greater detail.

Byrnes and Terry Argue the Labor Law

The discussion of the proposed labor law now before Congress, between Rep. John W. Byrnes and Emmett E. Terry, a Wisconsin official of the Teamsters' union, has the advantage of being concentrated directly on the most vital and controversial sections of the measure.

Terry opened the discussion with a request to Rep. Byrnes to oppose any amendments to the Kennedy-Ervine bill that would tighten its provisions on hot cargo, organizational picketing and secondary boycott.

Byrnes' reply was full and fair. He declared that he would do everything in his power to see that the bill includes provisions which will protect both union members and the general public against unscrupulous actions of labor leaders.

What Byrnes' action will be was made clear in his letters to constituents this week. He pointed out that the bill as finally reported out by the House Labor and Public Welfare committee was about as weak-kneed a response to the need for a labor reform bill as could have been put together. Even so, he said, it was too tough for some 10 Democratic members of the committee, most of whom were under obligations to labor. Ten other Democrats voted to bring the bill out. With the majority party members in a tie the measure would have died had not six Republicans supported it. Four other Republicans were against it.

Byrnes said the Republicans voting for the bill did so hoping to amend it on the floor to make it "an effective labor reform measure." While Byrnes agrees that Congress should take no action to hinder the legitimate objectives of unions, he regards the hot cargo clauses, organizational or "blackmail" picketing and secondary boycotts against innocent third parties as tools the unscrupulous union leader uses to extract tribute from union members and employers alike.

He makes a good point when he asks how hard working, conscientious union members could seek to retain for a union leader the very weapons he uses to destroy the rights of others.

Terry's reply to Byrnes is that "there are plenty of laws to take care of such infractions" as Byrnes has charged against Hoffa. But there is plenty of evidence of wrongdoings that it has been impossible to punish under present laws. The AFL-CIO, which certainly has a very sympathetic labor viewpoint, has expelled the Teamsters for refusing to weed out gangsters and otherwise to clean up the union.

Evidence presented before the Senate committee and either admitted by Teamster President James Hoffa or substantiated by his lieutenants taking the Fifth amendment innumerable times is sufficient to convince any reasonable person that Hoffa has associated with racketeers and gangsters.

When Terry asked why, if union leaders are guilty of such irregularities, they are not punished under existing laws, he answers his own question. Congress is now and has been for months trying to find out why such leaders have gone unpunished. The committee is convinced that the present laws are insufficient. Congress, as a result of its investigations, is trying to write a needed reform law. Most important labor leaders are opposing the legislation.

When Terry says that if the kind of legislation Byrnes is supporting should be enacted "the economic status of American workers will be little better than that of the slaves of pre-Civil war days who were freed nearly 100 years ago" he is talking nonsense and he knows it. That argument is almost as ancient and out of date as the weapons of the Civil war would be if used today.

There is no chance of slavery for anyone under any laws proposed in Congress today. When powerful labor leaders talk of being enslaved they get a laugh from everyone including their members.

The fact is that many employers, great and small, are being enslaved by racketeers who use union laws. A racketeer with a paper union (many legitimate unions have issued such charters) can set up a hired picket line and crush a business into submission. This is possible because union men will refuse to cross the picket lines and thus throw the entire force of many powerful unions behind the phony paper union and the racketeer running it. Union members do not have much choice about picket lines. They are coerced by the attitude of their leaders.

The employer, great or small, has one choice. He can submit to the demands of the racketeer or go broke. If the unions want such powers they must not only prove that they need them but also they must prove that they have made provisions to prevent their successful use by racketeers. This is the thing they have not done and Hoffa is one of the great offenders in this regard.

Forcing a Park Upon Indiana

Sen. Paul Douglas (D-Ill.) finally may be successful in forcing a Sand Dunes park upon the people of Indiana in spite of the opposition of Indiana's two senators and many of its people.

The people of most states would welcome a national park under almost any circumstances. National parks are the greatest assets some states have. But in Indiana the area proposed for a Sand Dunes park could also be used as a site for steel mills and harbor facilities. With the St. Lawrence Waterway opening the people of Indiana are looking forward to greater industrial development and water borne commerce. To them the dunes are just a lot of sand along a shore that could very well be developed industrially.

But to Sen. Douglas, just across the state line in Illinois, and to a great many people of Illinois and Chicago, the Indiana sand dunes hold great possibilities for recreation if properly developed. For this reason the senator has persisted in his efforts to have 5,000 acres of Indiana put into a national park. When his bill was close to death because he was unable to convince enough senators to go against the will of the Indiana senators, he invited the members of the committee to visit the dunes.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson (D-New Mexico) who refused to go against the wishes of the Indiana senators now has been convinced that the park would be a good thing. He has seen a full color moving picture of the dunes area and has been greatly impressed, he says. In fact he is so far along in favor of the Douglas bill that he is personally thinking of ways of getting around the demands of senatorial courtesy. He thinks it might be possible to get one Indiana senator to withdraw his opposition. That would permit him to favor the bill.

Another suggestion he has is to adopt a federal "save our seashore and lake beach parks" bill which he has offered with other senators. That measure would include the Indiana area. He also favors a compromise which would permit some of the dunes lands east of Gary to be used for industrial development. And he would go so far as to offer special aid in helping Indiana to build a new public harbor. Sen. Frank E. Moss, (D-Utah) and Sen. Ernest Gruening (D-Alaska) visited the dunes area over Memorial day. They now are enthusiastic supporters of the measure and they announced to the people of Indiana that there are two or three alternate sites which would do very well for their proposed harbor.

Indiana is in the peculiar and interesting position of having a special park forced upon it over the objection of its senators and oddly enough it appears from this distance that it may be to Indiana's advantage in the end. If Sen. Anderson's ideas are adopted Indiana will get not only a very valuable dunes park but also a harbor probably much earlier than otherwise — all paid for by the government.

Wisconsin could very well use a national park but so far our senators have favored it and we apparently are a long ways from getting it.

Canadian Network Must Go Back to Original Principles

From The Toronto Telegram

Parliament's examination of the Canadian Broadcasting corporation has been completed for the present session. The broadcasting committee's report will be made within the next few days, before the session prorogues.

What is the future of the CBC? With great clarity, the evidence now directs substantial changes in administrative policy.

Costs of the national broadcasting policy, of which the CBC is the instrument, have reached a critical stage. Older parliamentary hands will remember past inquiries devoted to assessing CBC costs that must be met from the public purse. In the days of radio, costs appeared high. They were increasing. Several acute crises, involving changes in administration, arose. But in the days of television, budgetary demands have broken all records.

Evidence that has fallen with bombshell effect upon public opinion has shown not only that costs are rising to unprecedented levels, but that administrative methods have led the CBC to the point where advertisers, some of them large Canadian firms, enjoy a form of subsidy that is wholly without authorization by parliament.

One aspect now fully clarified is that parliament itself, though under a new government, has not in any way weakened its support of a national broadcasting policy. The Diefenbaker government takes second place to none of its predecessors in favoring the principles on which the CBC rests.

But those principles are subject to closer scrutiny than at any time in the past. The original basis of a national broadcasting service was twofold, that it should encourage Canadian talent and that it should furnish service to regions where costs and other factors would delay or prohibit its development.

As things are, parliament can scarcely avoid issuing a new directive in the field of national broadcasting policy. And the only course open is to return the CBC to its original principles.

Steel Strike Opponents Cause Harm by Failure to Compromise

From The Ottawa Journal

Is there some perversity in human nature which makes free enterprise, sometimes called the "people's capitalism" — what the Russians say it is — a thing doomed to failure?

Looking at the strike of steelworkers which came today in the U. S. — a strike which could have far-reaching injury for all of North America — many must be inclined to say "yes".

For reading the torrent of propaganda with which the steelworkers and steel companies have filled the airwaves and the press over the past two months, it has been hard to believe that in this dispute there hasn't been on both sides more anger and stubbornness than reason and responsibility.

Steelworkers receive an average wage of $3 an hour, and the steel companies hold that apart from this being a fair wage any increase now must result in higher steel prices, feeding inflation. They are "holding the line," they say, the injunction of President Eisenhower.

But the steelworkers answer that the present profits of the steel companies are such that they could afford a substantial wage increase without need to increase prices, and they add that, because of automation, production costs at the steel plants are lower now than in 1957 and 1958.

This claim may have some validity: in the first quarter of 1959 the net earnings of U. S. Steel, Bethlehem and Republic — the "Big Three" — showed an enormous increase over the same quarter of 1958.

But the steel companies, unconvinced, holding stubbornly to their claim that they could not pay wages — not even the 15 cents an hour package which the unions finally came to ask — without increasing prices, chose to face a strike.

And so a shutdown of steel plants which, prolonged, will not only sweep back the wave of prosperity which had been rolling in on the U. S., but must have direct adverse consequences for Canada, possibly forcing a shutdown of the Steel Company of Canada at Hamilton next winter, which gets 95 per cent of its ore from the U. S.; stop two Canadian iron ore producers, Iron Ore of Canada and Steep Rock, from moving their ore to U. S. customers; affect Canadian workers in subsidiaries of U. S. steel companies, and stop Canada's imports of steel from the U. S. for structural purposes.

And the pity of all this is that if this strike follows the pattern of most strikes in recent years it will be followed in the end, after all the loss and hardship that it must mean for everybody, by concessions from both sides — concessions which, conceivably, could be made now without much harm for anybody.

Council of Non-Profit Homes Seeks to Better Care of Aged

From The Milwaukee Journal

Representatives of 37 of the 126 non-profit homes in the state have just formed the Wisconsin Council of Non-profit Homes and Hospitals for the Aged. The council is the outgrowth of an organization of about a dozen homes, most of them in the Milwaukee area.

Purpose of the council is to exchange information and experience and over the next year to establish a set of standards. These would in general, represent a level of care, program and personnel higher than most of the non-profit homes could now meet. But they would be given up to five years in which to bring operations up to the desired level and thus retain or obtain membership in the council.

All homes ministering to the aged must meet state standards. These are minimal, however, and apply to all institutions from small private nursing homes to large nonprofit homes, many of which have religious affiliations.

Some standards which the new council has in mind are these: A formal tie-in of non-profit homes with a general hospital so that residents of the homes may be transferred swiftly in an emergency; occupational therapy and group work programs so that residents' time may be more satisfactorily taken up; a social case worker on the staff of each home to help residents deal with the many problems of the aged.

Increasingly, the nonprofit homes are caring for the aged who are chronically or at least periodically ill. This

Nelson's Program to Aid Students Casualty

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — Among the regrettable casualties of the 1959 legislature was the program of aid to worthy candidates for college and university as pushed by Gov. Nelson.

The governor's program was struck down not necessarily because the lawmakers disagreed with it, although some of them did.

It was mortally squeezed in an institutional conflict between the public and private institutions of higher learning in the state, a conflict that a seasoned politician might have anticipated and tried to avoid, but which Gov. Nelson didn't or couldn't.

With the backing of many men of good will and appreciation of the facts of life in higher education, the governor drew a plan for scholarships and loans for worthy and needy students.

On its merits the measure would doubtless have passed. But the private schools, perhaps justifiably, felt that a program of state grants to students would inevitably dry up their more enrollments because the scholarship student could make his money more effective at the tax-supported universities and colleges than at their own. That is to say, a boy who won a scholarship of $600 would almost surely enroll at Madison where fees come to $220 a year, rather than at a private school where he might be liable for $1,500.

They asked for an amendment to provide for grants up to $600, or up to the amount of the tuition fees, which would have been lower in the case of tax-supported institutions. On that fight the bill was killed and at the moment it doesn't seem likely that it can be revived.

ALTERNATIVE

Assemblyman Truetel of Wood county is not an especially vocal member of the legislature, although he is a faithful follower of his Democratic party program. Mr. Truetel is blind, and when he arises to speak it is after he has thought deeply and carefully.

The Wisconsin Rapids member made what appeared to this correspondent the most sensible suggestion during the long debate on the floor.

He made the observation that the state is in absurdly poor financial condition to means that the homes must provide considerably more than just pleasant surroundings. It is through their own efforts that the homes affiliated with the new council hope to provide the required care and thus better meet the needs of the rising number of older people.

day to propose outright grants in sufficient numbers or size to be of any help to, significant numbers of worthy candidates for college, and that, in any event, a loan program is preferable on all counts.

The state has had an impressive and satisfying experience with its student loans during the last quarter of a century. They are repaid with proud punctuality and regularity, which means that any given appropriation is available for the aid of successive generations of students. The loan program emphasizes individual initiative and responsibility; the grant program smacks of welfarism and profligacy.

The grant program, however it is administered, tends to discriminate against that boy or girl who has worked hard during his younger years to save the college tuition fees (Mr. Truetel might have continued) or against those parents who have sacrificed for the educational advancement of their children. The grant program obviously also discriminates against the anonymous taxpayer, in the case of the state university, who is already providing "grants" amounting to $500 a year or more for each undergraduate in the way of tax-financed state appropriations. The grant program will always discriminate against the church or other privately endowed schools, since their tuition charges will always appear high against the subsidized public institutions.

A loan program would permit the student to elect his school, and to elect his debt budget accordingly.

It might also suit the possibly old-fashioned principle that what a man earns on his own resources is more valuable to him and is likely to be more useful than that which is granted to him by the benevolent state.

Wants Rail Depot on Site Of City Dump

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I have read with great interest the editorial by the Appleton Post-Crescent entitled the railway station issue. Mr. Van Susteren is to be commended for taking action on this very important subject.

I do not think that resumption of service in the old downtown location would be feasible because of the problem of trains blocking too many streets. Even less can be said for a depot that is practically out of town.

A location which I think should be considered for the erection of a depot is the ravine used as a city dump and which is now practically filled in. The location, just north of the railroad tracks and west of Division street makes it an ideal place for a railway depot. When a train is in, the only street which would be blocked would be North Division street, which would leave larger streets like Oneida street open to traffic.

I suggest that in consideration of the need for a downtown railway station the land be made available to the Chicago and North Western Railroad for construction of a railway depot. I am sure that the Chicago and North Western Railroad as well as the City of Appleton would like to have this issue decided.

Plummer Blames Congress Failure To Provide Funds

Madison — The state highway commission Monday cancelled its scheduled Aug. 18 road work letting and predicted an end soon to all highway construction if federal funds are not forthcoming.

Commissioner Harold L. Plummer blamed the curtailment on "inaction by the congress" that has Wisconsin and at least 25 other states "up a tree" for money to meet current roadwork obligations.

Plummer said the state has $112 million in highway work under contract in which the federal aid share amounts to 71 per cent, or about $80 million.

Due to congress' delay in approving legislation to replenish the highway trust fund, Plummer said Wisconsin will have to cancel further roadwork bid letting for a time at least.

Few Contracts

He said at a news conference only a few of the contracts let a week ago can be awarded, and added:

"The commission has a period of 30 days from the time of the letting to make the awards, but no disposition of most of them can be made until there is clarifying action by congress." The 40 contracts involved totaled $7,688,000.

The Aug. 18 bid letting now cancelled would have involved 21 contracts and an estimated $4,600,000.

Plummer said work on the interstate system scheduled for completion this year will be done as scheduled, but that 1960 work must be delayed pending further notice. He said a cutback or "stretch-out" of the program in 1960 and 1961 also appears likely.

All roadwork will eventually be affected by the cutback, Plummer said, since the state will have to divert funds temporarily at least to meet obligations the federal government has not yet repaid.

7 Killed in 2-Car Crash in Kansas

Emporia, Kan. — Seven persons were killed Sunday in a 2-car collision on a curve of U.S. 50 about 10 miles east of Emporia. There were no survivors.

Killed in one car were Mrs. Opal Epting, 59, of Burlington, Kan., and her sister, Mrs. Marie Walt, 62, of Emporia.

They were on their way to a wedding shower in Burlington for Mrs. Epting's daughter, Linda, an Emporia State college student.

Dead in the other car were Truman M. Hoover, 52, Wichita; his wife, 42; their son, Irvin, 8; their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Toles, both 19, of Wichita.

Sheriff Bert Johnson said the Hoover car apparently had passed another vehicle on the long curve and was in the wrong lane when the accident occurred.

Sen. Miller Will Lose Roads Committee Job

West Allis Democrat Slated to Receive Position on Interim Group

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — One of the giants of Wisconsin legislative politics is about to be shorn of some of his power as a delayed result of the Democratic victories in the elections last November.

Sen. Jess Miller of Richland Center, rumble-voiced spokesman of rural Wisconsin and long-time representative of Richland and adjoining counties in the state senate, will be toppled from the chairmanship of the important interim committee on highways.

Likely Successor

Assemblyman Robert Huber of West Allis, the Democrats' ranking member of that committee, is likely to succeed to the chairmanship when the group just appointed meets to organize.

Miller has been leader of the interim committee, to which the legislature has assigned most of the major policy studies involving highways and related subjects for the last decade and a half, during the last 12 years.

The committee prepared the ground for some of the major highway legislation of recent times, and notably the state arterial highway system and the total revision of the Fire Chief Paul Neumann, Mayor Mitchell and Fire and Police Commission President Carl A. Sherry, in front row conducted the annual inspection of all uniformed officers of the Appleton fire department.

Jewish Congress Asks Soviets to Let Jews Follow Their Own Way

Stockholm — An appeal to Soviet authorities to let Russian Jews follow their own way of life was issued here Sunday night at the opening of the fourth assembly of the World Jewish Congress.

"There is no people in the world suffering more from the cold war than the Jews," said Nahum Goldmann, president of the congress.

"Most other peoples live either on one side of the Iron Curtain or the other," said Goldmann. "The Jews live and work on both sides."

Discussing the lot of Jews in Russia, Goldmann said: "The only form of Jewish life still in existence expresses itself in a small number of synagogues and even this number, very inadequate to the number of Jews, is diminishing and not increasing."

Representatives of the Swedish government and a number of foreign embassies attended last night's opening, but no Soviet diplomat appeared.

A congress spokesman said the Soviet ambassador to Sweden, Feodor Gusev, had turned down an invitation, saying he and his staff were too busy.

The only Jews from eastern Europe attending the assembly are three Polish observers.

Humphrey, Playing Old Game, Returns

Refuses to Say He's Running Or Will Enter April Primary

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, fondly called by his Wisconsin admirers "the third senator of Wisconsin," made another of his continuing series of stumping tours into the state Monday.

The American political tradition commands that nobody shall ever too obviously seek a presidential nomination. "The office must seek the man," Sen. Humphrey is maintaining the tradition, but the pretense is wearing a little thin.

No, he has not yet decided to run for president; his friends have put him into the race, he told a press conference. No, he has not yet decided to enter the Wisconsin presidential preference primary next spring, but he will enjoy it, he is sure. The primary is great as an educational medium, and he has some things he wants to communicate to the voters.

He has many friends in Wisconsin, and the problems here are strongly similar to those of his own state, he continues. Minnesota and Wisconsin are substantially peopled by the same racial stocks. Wisconsin has a farm problem. So does Minnesota. He is trying to solve it.

The press conference pattern continues, and in a pleasant fashion. Every reporter in the room knows what Humphrey is doing in Wisconsin and the senator knows that the reporters know. It is a kind of game, governed by unwritten protocol, that will end half a dozen Wisconsin press conferences hence when the senator will make his formal announcement that he is a candidate and will test his candidacy in the Wisconsin primary against all comers next April.

Humphrey is one of the most familiar campaigners in this state, as a repeated stumper for the Democrats on their way to power. But close inspection discloses some changes in the man who is the top commander of the Democratic-Farm-Labor party of neighboring Minnesota.

County Party Chairman Back Sen. Humphrey

Brown, Shawano Democratic Heads Among His Boosters

Receding Hair-line

Occasionally his torrential speech style returns, but he is obviously trying to slow himself down. He looks older. His voice is raspy, perhaps as the echo of the more numerous public appearances he has made lately. He speaks readily, almost in a flip fashion, pausing only occasionally to choose a word, only for the fleetest moment when an unexpected question comes up from a reporter he hasn't seen before. At 48, he has a slightly receding hair-line.

Humphrey used to come in to the state unescorted for his party chores. He now travels with a little entourage including his administrative assistant, a press agent, and several others. He arrives in a "television shirt", something that is noticed by the local politicians who have not yet so automatically attuned themselves to the problems of the news media.

Knows Names

The senator appears anxious to impress his listeners with his world views and world experiences. Mayor Willi Brandt of West Berlin for the senator's bid for is called "my personal friend." There is a casual reference to his celebrated marathon talk with Khrushchev. He describes the faces and the reactions of Germans at Templehof Aerdrome.

The alert eyes range the room while the senator reels off the automatic replies to the standard questions that local reporters put to the itinerant presidential aspirant. He has visited Wisconsin so often he has learned the names of some of the writers. Sometimes he lapses into the verbiage of his old academic occupation, as when he drops the phrase "frame of reference" several times into a single paragraph.

But he also speaks succinctly and quotably, as when he wound up his interview with "My advice to the American people is not to be in a hurry to get panicky. We're strong, and we're stronger than the Soviets."

County Party Chairman Back Sen. Humphrey

Brown, Shawano Democratic Heads Among His Boosters

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Four Democratic county chairmen of northeastern Wisconsin, including Miles Riley of the Brown county party organization, were named Monday as backers of the candidacy of Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1960.

The announcement came from the Humphrey for President committee, with headquarters in Milwaukee, in connection with another of the senator's campaign swings into the state.

The organization also is publicizing the fact that six of the 10 Democratic party district chairmen are backing Humphrey, including Mrs. Ethel McMurray of Stevens Point, who heads the Seventh congressional district organization.

The Humphrey club evidently is well organized and already is distributing campaign literature in preparation for the senator's bid for delegates in the state elections next spring.

Franklin Wallick, an employee of the Wisconsin AFL-CIO staff, is acting as director of the campaign organization.

Other northeastern county party leaders identified as Humphrey backers include Kenneth Traeger of Shawano county, former candidate for congressman, and Oscar Berg of Kewaunee county. The group claims the support of 32 of the 71 party chairmen of the counties thus far.

Endorse Catlin Law by Inference

Kennedy, Humphrey Speak Out for Individual Backing of Union Men

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The Republican-enacted so-called Catlin law prohibiting the use of labor organization dues money for political campaign purposes, now in the process of repeal by action of Democrats in the Wisconsin capitol, Monday was inferentially endorsed by the second Democratic presidential candidate in the last three days.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota told reporters that he prefers individual and voluntary contributions of working men in his campaigns.

Two days earlier Sen. John Kennedy of Massachusetts, a probable rival for Humphrey in the 1960 Wisconsin Democratic presidential primary, expressed opposition to the idea of compulsory contributions to campaigns by organized workmen.

Sensitive Issue

It was not clear that either of the national Democratic party figures was aware of the sensitive Wisconsin background of the union fund questions, although Humphrey is being aided here by Frank Wallick, publicist of the AFL-CIO which directed the campaign for legislative repeal of the Catlin act recently.

Humphrey did not expressly oppose union money in politics, but said union funds as such should be expended for political education, registration campaigns and similar efforts.

But he repeated that in his own career he has asked only for voluntary backing of individual workingmen, whose small contributions would be accompanied by their personal campaign support.

(The Catlin act of 1955 remains on the law books of Wisconsin, but it will shortly be wiped out. Gov. Gaylord Nelson is virtually certain to sign the repeal bill which was pushed through the legislature by Democrats at the insistence of labor organizations and with the backing of several Republicans in the Republican-controlled state senate.)

'Blithe Spirit' Next Stage Vehicle of Peninsula Players
Fish Creek — Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit," a sophisticated ghost story that titillates rather than terrorizes, is the next attraction of the Peninsula Players' silver-anniversary season. The 3-act play will open at the Theater-in-a-Garden here for a 6-night run Tuesday night.
The production will star Mildred Shelton, who starred as Billie Dawn in the Players' production of "Born Yesterday," and Lynda Seegal, who played a title role in the theater's "Gigi," will portray Condomine's wives.
"Blithe Spirit," written by Coward in 1941, had its premiere in Manchester, England, the same year. It later had a long run at Broadway's Morosco theater and was produced as a movie, home is upset by the appearance of his late first wife, Elvira, the "blithe spirit." Her husband.

Indian Fair Opens Friday At Reservation

Keshena — One of the last Menominee Indian fairs will be opened for a 3-day stand Friday at the reservation. The reservation will become the state's 72nd county in 1961 and the Indian fair will be transformed into a county fair in the future.

Exhibitions and entertainment depicting the Indian way of life will again highlight the fair, although "white man" enterprises will be evident also.

The feature of the exposition will again be the Indian pageant the evenings of Aug. 8 and 9. The pageant, with a cast of reservation residents, will depict the several transition periods experienced by the tribe.

The performances will be staged in the Woodland bowl at 8:30 p.m. with concerts by the 70-piece Shawano High school band to be performed an hour earlier.

An Indian village will be on display and Indian dancing will be performed there and at the arena at Keshena Falls. Peter W. Beauprey is in charge.

Of less special attraction will be home talent horse races, Saturday and Sunday afternoons, a carnival, a baseball game between the Reservation and Caroline at noon Sunday and a grandstand vaudeville show at 2 p.m. Saturday and Sunday starring Buddy Knox and Jimmy Bowen with their Rhythm Orchids.

Lawrence Says

Visit of Red Premier Likely To be Useless

Ike, However, Gets Praise for Trying To Ease Tension

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington — President Eisenhower certainly deserves as "A" for effort in trying to maintain world peace—but his decision to invite Soviet Premier Khrushchev to visit the United States will probably prove, through no fault of the president, as futile a gesture as was the summit conference of 1955 at Geneva.

Memories are short, but only four years have passed since Eisenhower fraternized with the top leaders of the Kremlin, including Nikita Khrushchev, amid worldwide acclaim and enthusiastic comments in the West that this was the way to bring about an "easing of tensions" and a solution of the current controversies of the "cold war."

But every pledge made at Geneva has since been broken by the Soviet government. It became necessary afterwards for the United States actually to take a military posture in the Far East to prevent a Soviet-inspired invasion of Formosa by Red China's forces. Also, the United States had to land marines in Lebanon and take other measures to forestall a Soviet conquest of the Middle East.

Not only has the solemn elm trees in the village and reported that of 3,500 trees examined he found none with Dutch elm disease. He reported the Kimberly tree program is well handled.

Approval was given for the chief of police to attend the annual convention Aug. 31, Sept. 1 and 2 at Beloit.

A state inspector checked promise, made at the 1955 summit meeting at Geneva, to assure the reunification of Germany been broken, but within the last few months the Moscow government has issued an ultimatum to the western powers to withdraw their forces from West Berlin or face the threat of war.

For several weeks now it has been the American position that there must be some give on the part of the Soviets before there could be a summit conference. The Moscow government has refused to give an inch. Consequently, the conference of the four foreign ministers has been deadlocked and is ending in failure.

The president has said there would be no summit conference until developments at Geneva justified it. Nikita Khrushchev insisted that the foreign ministers couldn't settle anything, and that the summit was the place to do it. He hasn't yet had his way entirely on that point, but he will have a chance in a 2-man summit meeting to indicate whether the Soviets mean to withdraw their ultimatum on West Berlin.

Not a Spokesman

Meanwhile, the president will go to London and Paris later this month to canvass the views of Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain and President De Gaulle of France. Presumably, Eisenhower will reflect the views of the western allies when he meets Khrushchev, though the president will, as he says, not be their authorized spokesman in a formal sense.

Two points of view prevail today about the exchange of visits between the Soviet dictator and the American president.

One is that tension will be eased and the "cold war" will thaw out a bit. The other view is that Khrushchev will tighten his hold on the Soviet people and will tell them that America now accepts the leaders of communism as equals. With a controlled press, this will mean misleading propaganda inside the Soviet Union and within the countries occupied by Soviet troops.

Time alone will tell which view of the Khrushchev trip will turn out to be the correct appraisal. But the Soviets thus far have given not the slightest indication of any concessions or changes, nor have they exhibited any evidence that they will not break agreements again.

World Conquest

The president himself is under no illusions. He knows that Khrushchev is bent on world conquest. But Eisenhower is betting on the inevitable restraints that peoples themselves can exercise when their leaders go too far.

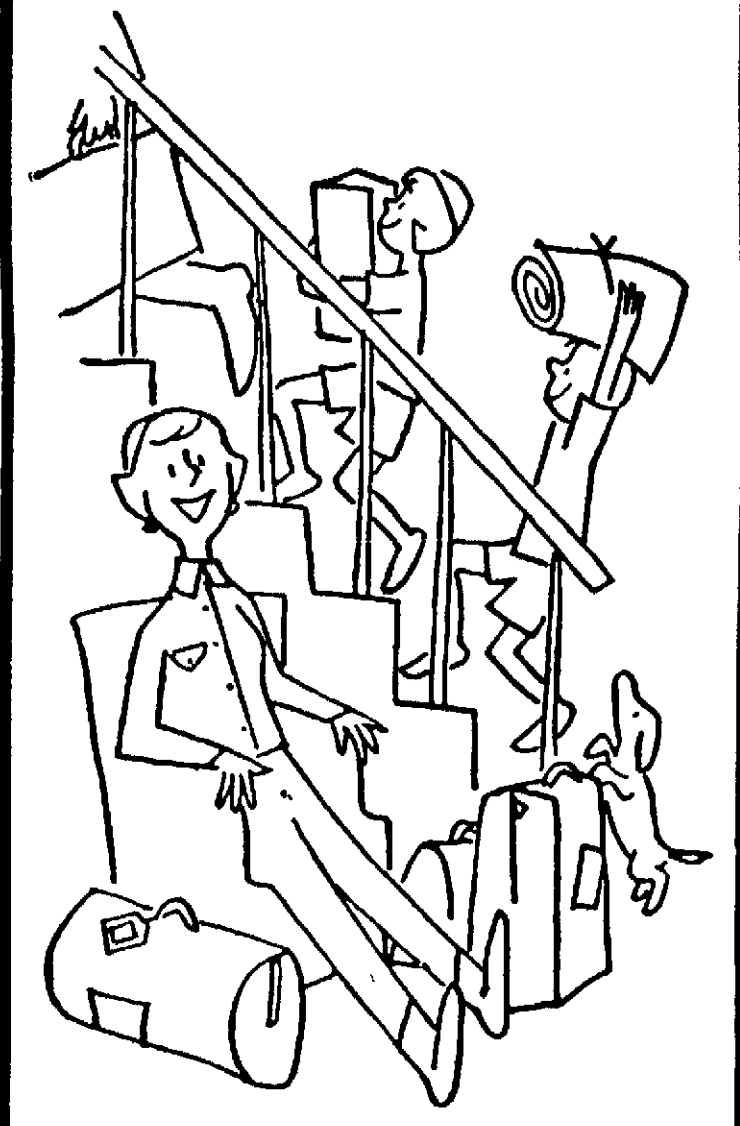

It's a gamble, and hereabouts the comment is often heard that the advantages of a visit by Khrushchev outweigh the disadvantages, and that no harm can be done by trying to "educate" him.

This, however, ignores the effect on the peoples of the "captive nations" of Eastern Europe who yearn for freedom and who have hoped in vain that the leadership of the west will do nothing to enhance the prestige of their oppressors. It is not a happy augury for the peoples inside East Germany and Hungary and Poland, where the fighters for freedom took a chance just a few years ago and made a heroic effort to secure their liberty.

But within a few months the Soviet game will have been exposed. The Soviet premier will have been to America and will have discovered that Americans are not afraid to make sacrifices when challenged on a basic principle of human liberty. If he miscalculates in the future, as he has in the past, there certainly will be less demand for summit conferences thereafter for a long, long time.

Hitler misconstrued Chamberlain's mission to Munich in 1938 as a sign of weakness. It is to be hoped that Khrushchev will not thus misconstrue Eisenhower's concessions currently being made in a spirit of good will and accommodation. For it must be admitted that the Soviet leader now has been given his leading propaganda inside the meeting with the president of the United States without having acceded to the western demand that he withdraw his ultimatum on Berlin.

Sees Need for Clearing Air Over Berlin Before 'Mr. K' Visits U. S.

BY WALTER LIPPMANN

New York — There is a certain amount of talk about inviting Mr. Khrushchev to come to Washington. Some who favor it believe that while the exchange of visits by Mikoyan and Kuzlov, and Nixon, can do some good, it is not enough to make the situation more stable.

A personal visit, they hold, is the only way to make Mr. K. realize the size and vitality of this country, its determination not to abandon West Berlin, and its will to peace.

Quickest Way

There are a few others who would like to see an Eisenhower-Khrushchev parley because they have come to think that this is the quickest and most likely way to reach a tolerable compromise arrangement. The argument here is that on the Soviet side only Mr. K. can or will make the exchanges of concessions that would seal a bargain, and that he is more likely to do this in a 2-power parley than in the more complicated summit talks. On the western side, the argument is that negotiation is difficult and clumsy between the Soviet Union acting alone and the three powers who are four powers because West Germany is consulted in every stage and is virtually present.

From the American point of view there is amidst all the subtlety and pitfalls of this question one clear and certain rule of conduct. We cannot appoint ourselves to negotiate with Mr. K. on behalf of the western world, and even an intimation on our part that we were thinking of a 2-power parley as an alternative to a summit meeting would be resisted furiously in Bonn and in Paris.

Another Problem

There is, also, the problem of an American visit by Mr. K. My view is that it will be imprudent until and unless there is a decided improvement in the general atmosphere. This improvement can come only if there is a provisional agreement on West Berlin—an agreement arrived at by the foreign ministers or at a summit meeting later on in Europe. Mr. K. should not come to Washington until there has been eliminated the threat of a blockade and the risk of our having to resist the blockade and to retaliate.

There does not have to be a solution of the whole German problem before Mr. K. comes to this country. But he should not come while West Berlin is in such a dangerous position.

As long as the war clouds hang over Berlin, this country could not protect Mr. K.

not appoint ourselves to negotiate with Mr. K. on behalf of the western world, and even an intimation on our part that we were thinking of a 2-power parley as an alternative to a summit meeting would be resisted furiously in Bonn and in Paris.

A visit by Mr. K. to Washington has its advantages and its dangers. But if it takes place, it should follow, not precede, a summit meeting in which Gen. de Gaulle is present personally and Dr. Adenauer is present by proxy. It is not certain that anything substantial can be accomplished at such a summit meeting. But the western allies are committed to the idea that this is the right way to negotiate substantial things and that is the only way that they can accept. This right way is by 4-power negotiation with West Germany in fact though not in form making it a 5-power negotiation.

In the master bedroom of the Sargent home a satin glass cracker jar adorns the pie crust table at the foot of the bed and two early Victorian chairs, upholstered in blue velvet, lend an inviting air. The room is done entirely in blue and white and above the blue-checked gingham curtains is an arrangement of English and German china in the same colors. The opposite wall is highlighted with Czechoslovakian lithography and an imported Madonna stone carving.

The living-dining area is dominated by a large stone fireplace above which hangs an oval plaque featuring an arrangement of dried fruits and nuts which won a first prize for Mrs. Sargent in a recent flower show. Two sofas, a blue velvet love seat and several occasional chairs are also included in the large living area.

Philippine mahogany paneling forms the background for an interesting picture wall in the Sargent home. Most of the oil paintings were done by friends from Menominee, Escanaba and Green Bay and all of the furniture was refinished by Sargent. One of her favorite decorating techniques is to place interesting art objects high atop windows or furniture.

The John Sargent home located on Lost Dauphin road overlooking the Fox river beyond West De Pere is an example of careful planning and research by an entire family which resulted in an unusual blend of traditional furnishings and a modern setting.

The Sargents followed much of the advice of the late architect from Wisconsin, Frank Lloyd Wright, in planning their dream home.

Do-It-Yourself Home Exhibits Ingenuity of De Pere Family

BY GINNIE ERDMANN
Post-Crescent News Service

In his book, "Painting as a Pastime," Winston Churchill compares painting a picture to waging a battle, and offers a 4-point program for success that seems to apply equally well to prospective home builders, too. A la Churchill: "Make a good plan . . . keep a strong reserve . . . reconnoiter the battleground . . . study the achievements of the great captains."

This just about describes the methods employed by Mr. and Mrs. John Sargent when they planned their home on Lost Dauphin road overlooking the Fox river beyond West De Pere. They proved that careful planning pays off . . . they made remarkable savings on materials . . . they examined their building site until they became familiar with all phases of it . . . and they diligently studied the work of the late great contemporary architect, Frank Lloyd Wright.

After talking to the Sargents one can't help but interpret home planning today as a clear-cut case of delightful confusion . . . it's a chance for creative people to translate nebulous ideas into walls, floors, windows, ceilings and materials.

Variety is the keyword. In their experience, the old, bygone house styles that seem to be anachronisms in our time gave way to a modern, functional design, reflecting new forms, new techniques and new family conveniences. At the same time the Sargents demonstrate how it is possible to use traditional antiques to point up charm and personality in an informal modern setting.

Studied Needs

Four years ago they moved back to the Green Bay area after living in Menominee, Mich., for a number of years. They leased an apartment for a year and during this time they diagnosed their needs, crystalized their plans, and organized their resources.

They had built two other homes before, both large, but this time visualized a smaller, more informal arrangement that would be easy to care for. In selecting a perfect spot for their dream home the Sargents followed Frank Lloyd Wright's advice, "Go out as far as you think you can . . . and then go ten times farther!"

The home was started in June of 1956 and the Sargents moved in Jan. 1, 1957. "One New Year's day we'll never forget!" As they roamed about their 6-acre wooded domain overlooking the Fox river, they reviewed with understandable pride the many do-it-yourself activities that had enabled the family housing project to reach completion in just six months.

Family Project

Using Frank Lloyd Wright's book "The Natural Family Home" they designed the structure by themselves with the help of friends. Sargent did the planning and engaged the workmen, but no contractor. Their son, Bob, did all the electrical wiring and installed the fixtures. The other Sargent sons, 24-year-old Jim, a medical student at the University of Michigan, and 20-year-old John, a junior at the University of Wisconsin, combined efforts in doing the plumbing and heating.

The home consists of two bedrooms, two baths, an enormous living-dining area and reception hall, a generously proportioned kitchen and porch and a utility room. It is constructed on a concrete slab with no basement. The roof has a 4-foot overhang of cantilever construction, another Wright recommendation.

One departure from the architectural wizard's writings was on the question of a garage. Wright asserts that a garage ruins the aesthetic proportions of a home, but the Sargents felt they needed a 2-car structure anyway.

The interior of the home is spacious and restful and many of the walls are done in vertical Philippine mahogany paneling with hand-cut stone-work dramatizing opposite walls in the living-dining area where the floors are of oak parquet.

Large Windows

Floor-to-ceiling windows along the front of the house take full advantage of the superb view and the large beams supporting the roof impart a feeling of rustic majesty.

Home planners who intend to incorporate interior stone work are advised to visit a quarry and observe the natural grain of the rock and then have it handcut that way. The Sargents spent an entire Sunday afternoon just sitting and watching rock formations.

A decorative interest factor on the Sargent's terrace is this little rock fountain which draws admiring glances from visitors. In the winter the fountain is moved indoors and takes its place next to the hand-cut stone wall, partially shown in the living-dining area picture.

The three Sargent sons hauled the stone themselves from the nearby quarry.

Hundreds of bricks for the terrace, the entrance hall and the kitchen walls were collected. The bricks are always a conversation piece for visitors who discover that they're the same ones used between streetcar tracks . . . another money-saver!

One of the most interesting aspects of the home is the favorite flowers. Artemisia, decorating theme, natural color tones are used with traditional furnishings arranged casually. A raised hearth is the focal point of the living-dining area and artistic flow-ers arrangements dot the home. Colorful antiques, china and glassware are used by Mrs. Sargent to give the home a distinct personality.

Refinished Pieces Most of the Sargents' furnishings and accessories have undergone major changes. With untold patience and skill she has refinished 11 tables, 17 chairs and five chests for her home, along with one china cupboard and a love seat.

"The hardest part in refinishing a piece is cleaning it, then I rub it down with hot oil and turpentine, and give it a good waxing," she said. From spring to fall the yard blooms with Mrs. Sargent's favorite flowers. Artemisia, moss roses, day lilies and geraniums border the front terrace and surround a rock fountain, operated by electricity. It is moved indoors in the long winter months, permapetuating the indoor-outdoor atmosphere of Frank Lloyd Wright's "The Natural Home." The Sargents' pool efforts in creating this comfortable family haven.

Painful Posture

Are you subject to back aches? Or recurring pains in the shoulder, legs and feet? If so, you would be wise to check your posture.

Unless there is an underlying physical problem, pains in any or all of those regions often are due to postural faults. A discussion of them and their correction follows:

The fault that causes strained, tight shoulders is hunching over work. To get relief, you must keep your back and head erect, and hold your shoulders in the normal position — neither forward nor backward of the body. When you need to get a closer view of your work, instead of crumpling up over it, simply bend over from hip joints.

Pain in the lower back comes from standing with stiff knees, or throwing your hips and shoulders backward. As a remedy, bend your knees slightly and pivot your hips under the body.

Now to deal with aching feet and legs, the most common of all complaints. It will always be with you, if you stand with your weight jammed down on your heels. For a relief, wear well-fitted shoes. That, of course, goes without saying.

Girls: Tell Fortunes, Play Accordion for Dates

BY DOROTHY ROE

Accorded Press Women's Editor

Girls who yearn to be popular, always in demand and the life of the party might heed the advice of Betty Peterson, women's editor of the Boise, Idaho, Statesman.

"Learn to tell fortunes," says Betty. "If you add a smattering of astrology and handwriting analysis, so much the better. You'll never have a dull moment."

Betty subscribed to a course in fortune telling and palmistry a few years ago, got interested in the whole psychic subject and added astrology. Now she's the center of attention at every party, never at a loss for dinner invitations, and besieged on all sides by friends who look on her as an oracle.

"I wish I'd discovered this when I was a teenager," says Betty, who now has a teenage daughter of her own. "I could have had a lot more fun than I did because then I used to suffer from shyness. But a girl who can read palms and all that always has more dates than she can manage."

A different suggestion comes from attractive Mariann Probst, of Augsburg, Germany, who recently was named the world's champion accordion player.

Whales' Flippers Cover Immense Fingerbones

BY RAMON COFFMAN

New Bedford, Mass. — While I was in the Whaling museum, Mr. Purrington, the curator, showed me a skeleton of a whale. He pointed out four immense "fingerbones" and remarked:

"It has been said that if the whale had a thumb, it would have become master of the earth."

The so-called fingerbones, and other bones as well, are inside the flippers of a whale. Geologists believe that, ages ago, the whale was a four-legged animal which spent its time on land, perhaps mainly on beaches.

Extremely small bones found with the skeleton of some whales, are regarded as remnants of the hind legs.

In any case the whales we find today are water animals. They breathe air, but can go below the surface for long dives. Often they are out of sight for 20 or 30 minutes, sometimes longer.

The whalers of New Bedford took special interest in searching for the sperm

Our Children

Leaving Chore Undone Discredits Worker

BY ANGELO PATRI

Once a job has been started it must be finished. That is agreed. Nothing reflects so darkly upon a worker's attitude as leaving a job partly finished.

This is an adult view and an adult feeling about his work. It is one, however, that must be acquired by much practice so it cannot be required of children too young to know about it; too young to endure to the end.

This must be kept in mind when teaching a child to do whatever he undertakes, to a neat finish. To do that we must measure the task to the ability, the physical strength and the spiritual endurance of the child in question.

We want to teach the run-about child to put away the toys he has been using. First we must see that he has a place for them and that it is within easy reach of his short arms and unskilled hands.

By sharing his task it becomes lighter for him mentally and physically, and meanwhile he is learning that the proper thing to do is to put things where they belong once he is through using them.

This principle of helpfulness, sharing, cooperation in tasks must be carried on through childhood to adolescence when we hope the habit has been set. Even these older ones need to be helped toward a good finish at times.

Cooperation Important

Washing dishes can be a source of family disturbance if the work is not planned, shared and finished properly. Even an adolescent girl will quail at the sight of a sink piled high with used dishes. It is not good practice to leave such a task to her alone.

Help sort out the things. Prepare them for washing; stay with the child and work alongside her. This way she will learn to organize the job, carry on to a fine finish. Left alone she begins to feel put upon, ends up in discouragement, resentment and many times tears and temper.

Father has his share in this teaching when he shows his boy how to sweep the garage, wash the car, tidy the basement, mow the lawn, trim a border, use hammer and saw and nails where they are needed. To teach him to finish what he starts he stays with him to the end, helping, showing, teaching.

Angelo Patri offers readers leaflets on a variety of subjects concerning child training. If you would like to have his leaflet P-25, "Standards of Development," send 10 cents in coin to him, care of this paper, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York, N. Y.

Coroner's Jury Clears Mother In Child's Death

Denver — Death came by natural causes to 19-month-old Carol Bonner as she lay in her crib under two heavy leather coats, a coroner's jury has ruled.

The infant's mother, Mrs. Shirley Mae Bonner, 30, is charged with murder.

She surrendered to police last Thursday and told of trying to suffocate the child and end her suffering. Carol was born with a congenital heart malformation, water on the brain and a cleft palate.

The jury ruled the heart ailment caused Carol's death.

It added that her ailments may have been aggravated by lack of oxygen when the coats were placed over her.

The district attorney's office had no immediate comment on the ruling.

Mrs. Bonner now is under psychiatric care. She is the mother of three other small children. The husband and father is an accountant.

Committee Will Study City Trash Collection Policy

The city's garbage and trash collection policy will be studied by the street and sanitation committee, the committee decided Monday.

It acted on a request by Claude Griesch, sanitation inspector. Griesch said some industries require the city to pick up nearly a truckload of trash daily, for which they are charged only $3 extra a month.

One alderman said the city should pick up industrial wastes because industry pays such a large proportion of the tax levy.

Griesch suggested a separate schedule of rates might be established.

The committee denied a re-

'Who Was That Lady...'

Attic Theater Turns to Farce for Next Offering

"Who Was That Lady I Saw You With?" is the questioning title of the next arena-style offering of the Attic theater.

The 3-act, breezy and farcical comedy by Norman Krasna will open Saturday night at Lawrence College Music-Drama center for the summer theater's customary two succeeding weekend runs.

Curtain times for the first run will be 8:15 p.m. nightly from Saturday through Tuesday. The next weekend of performances will open with a 2 p.m. matinee Saturday, Aug. 15, especially presented for families.

Family Plan

According to the family plan idea, every two youngsters accompanied by an adult will be admitted to the Aug. 15 matinee free. The rest of the evening performances, Saturday night, Aug. 15, through Monday night, Aug. 17, will begin at 8:15.

When the play opened on Broadway in 1958, critics hailed it as the funniest farce of the season. It's a drama that is just fun, completely without a message, but full of surprising plot complications designed to keep the audience laughing.

The story centers about three main characters caught in a situation—an assistant chemistry professor, his pretty wife and their best friend, a television script writer with bright ideas on how to solve the problem. When the young wife catches her husband kissing a coed, the action starts unfolding in the attempt to save a happy marriage.

Before the play ends—happily and swiftly as all farces do—there are all sorts of com-

Petitions Ask Referendum

Seek Incorporation Of Part Of Preble as Fourth Class City

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Petitions for a referendum on the incorporation of part of Preble as a fourth class city were filed with the town board Monday by Peter Walraven.

The petitions asked for a referendum only within the area of the town that is not involved in annexation proceedings with Green Bay. Currently, three areas, in the north, west and east sections of the town, are seeking annexation to Green Bay.

Residents living within those areas would not be permitted to vote in the incorporation referendum.

Third Game

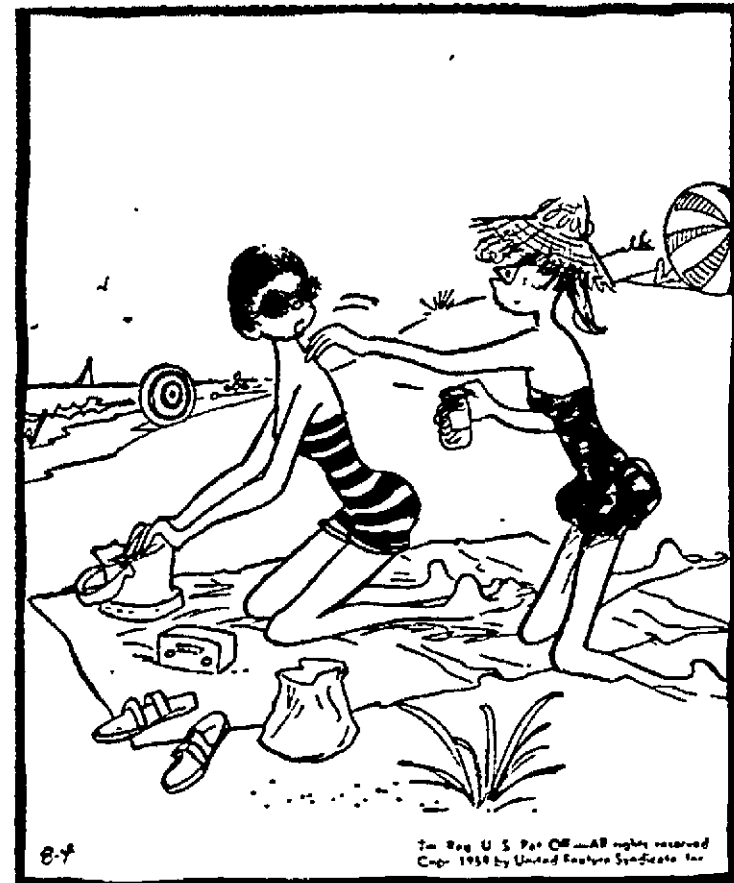

If a referendum is called this fall, as expected, it will mark the third time residents have been asked to vote on incorporation as a fourth class city or as a village.

The last referendum was held in April, 1958, when voters turned down a move to incorporate by a vote of 2,075 to 1,099. The turn-out at the polls was one of the largest recorded in the 100-year history of the town.

The first incorporation vote was on the formation of a city nearly four years ago. This was defeated only after the battle was carried to county court.

At that time Judge E. M. Duquaine asked for a two year "cooling off" period before any further incorporation referendums were held.

Village Tennis Meet Will Open, To Give Trophies

Kimberly — Various tournaments are scheduled to get underway this week at the Kimberly High school Youth Center, according to James Koehn, director.

Three-man shuffle alley pairings have been posted and all games will be played this week. The event is open for both boys and girls.

Doubles in the badminton tournament will open Friday. One more team is needed to round out the meet for the boys and several openings are available for the girls.

Air Holiday Pay Request

Finance Committee Refers Problem To Budget Unit

A request that salaried city employees be paid extra for weekend holiday was turned over to the budget committee by the finance committee Monday night.

Ald. Pointer had asked the committee to investigate either paying salaried employees for weekend holidays, or giving them time off. Hourly employees now are paid for weekend holidays on which they do not work.

Aldermen complained they did not understand the request. City hall offices are closed Saturday, and employees are paid on that basis, they said. One alderman said employees are never paid for Saturday and should not be paid just because a holiday falls on Saturday.

Could Cost $1,100

City Clerk Broehm said holiday pay could cost the city $1,100 a holiday. In a year like this year, it could cost $3,000, he said.

The committee recommended paying a $1,096.17 income tax claim by the city of Oconto. It will investigate a $33.69 claim by Wauwatosa.

It also recommended that the City band be asked to play for the Fox Cities Foxes booster night Thursday, sponsored by the Appleton Downtown Retail association. The band will play in lieu of another concert.

The committee also recommended transferring about $1,800 from the police pen-

Changes in Class Schedules Can be Made at KHS

Kaukauna — High school pupils will have an opportunity to make changes in their class schedules this week, according to Julian Bichler, principal.

Necessity of changes in the student's schedule must be shown through a signed note from the parents. Without the parent's signature there will not be any changes made, the principal said.

New students who have not registered or filled in a program for the school term also should report at the office this week.

Hours to handle changes and registration are from 9 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 3 p.m. on Monday through Friday. There will be no alterations in schedules after Friday, the principal said.

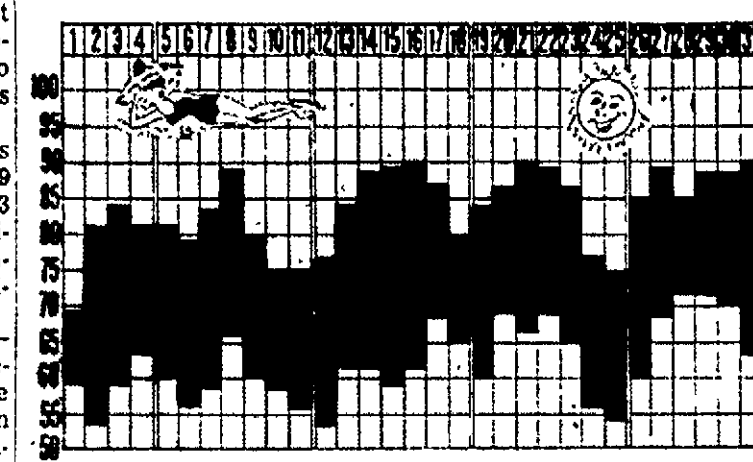

A fund to cover budget deficiencies in administrative accounts and to pay the town of Grand Chute fire department for fighting the A. W. Council company fire. Several city offices have had to spend more than their budgeted allotment this year, Broehm said.

Purchase of a dictating machine costing $695 was recommended. The machine will be used in the offices of the clerk, director of public works and welfare director.

It was explained those steps would come later and the state wanted to know what work the city considers necessary now and what work probably will have to be done in the future.

No decision has been made on what type of surfacing would be applied, but committee members feel it generally would be blacktop.

He started the family meat market in 1893 in the 2-story frame building that formerly stood on the northwest corner of E. College avenue and N. Durkee streets. Two of his sons, Robert and Fred, continued operating the present market after his retirement in 1952.

Voeks is the son of German immigrants who came to Appleton in 1869.

Selig said someone took about $75 in cash from his wallet, in the bedroom of his home, sometime between Friday night and Sunday noon. The house, unlocked, was left unattended for about two hours Saturday, he said.

Lord's Army store said someone stole a transistor radio valued at about $28, probably on Saturday afternoon.

Uses Rivals' Tricks

Toledo Lures Shoppers With Downtown Pedestrian Malls

as was hoped, dropping in at the stores around it to browse and buy.

Inspector Frank Baumgartner, head of the police traffic bureau, said traffic on the rims of the mall was heavy, but kept flowing smoothly.

Michael Yarin, president of LaSalle's department store, said the mall was "a shot in the arm for downtown Toledo. It looks extremely promising."

Mrs. Paula Rausch of Napoleon, Ohio, here with her husband, said:

"We came only out of curiosity, but I like the atmosphere and we'll be back. It's a big improvement."

Carl Clymer of Fremont, Ohio, said the mall was "by far the most sensible thing Toledo has ever done to improve business conditions."

Weekend Work

Over the weekend 150 workmen placed 2,400 feet of asphalt curb to outline curving walkways down the center of the mall blocks. Eighty tons of top soil was levelled back of the new curbs and topped with 350 square yards of sod.

That done, the workers set out 110 young trees, more than 100 shrubs and some 10,000 flowering plants. Toledo nurserymen supplied these at cost.

Colorful patio tiles were used to brighten the scene and the sidewalks along the malls were painted in such shades as dark brown, brick red and loganberry.

The background of the malls can be traced back to many plans over many years to brighten up downtown Toledo.

But the idea caught on early this year when six teams from the Toledo chapter of the American Institute of Architects began putting down on paper their thoughts on how the downtown section of this city of some 360,000 population could get a face lift.

Foot in Dreamland

After the 45-day trial is over the mall proponents will appraise the value of the downtown center. If it has been a success, if the shopping center indicates a continued trend toward downtown stores, city and county officials will begin planning for a permanent and more elaborate mall system.

An exhibit in one of the malls depicts Toledo's hopes for the future. It is a 67-square-foot model showing downtown Toledo as the architects would like to see it.

The drab river front is converted into a downtown park traversed by an expressway.

If Candidate, Humphrey to Run in State

ey," Humphrey told newsmen Monday, "but not on zeal, energy and determination."

Humphrey said he would make an official announcement late this fall before congress reconvenes.

"I'd like very much to campaign in this state in the old tradition, people-to-people, town-to-town," Humphrey added. "My decision would be predicated upon acceptance not only here but areas beyond Wisconsin and Minnesota."

Answers Nelson

Humphrey, on several former visits, also declined to make an official announcement of his possible candidacy. But his remarks Monday concerning the 1960 primary in Wisconsin were interpreted as a reply to Gov. Gaylord Nelson's statement that he believes a favorite son campaign would be better for the party and the state. Nelson, also a Democrat, feels a primary could split the party and thereby build a road for his administration.

Humphrey said he and Nelson are "good personal friends" and I assured him in politics I never get personal.

No Harm to Party
"I've been defeated and I've won," Humphrey continued. "I'll work for a liberal Democratic platform. I'll support the party's nominee. So there'll be no danger of the party's being hurt. There may be some personal feeling but that's the price you pay in politics."

He also said that if he decides to run he would welcome a campaign in Oregon and South Dakota, his native state.

When asked if he would consider the vice presidential position on a 1960 ticket, Humphrey said not at this time.

Any of the Democratic presidential possibilities, Humphrey said, "could take the measure of a Republican candidate. I might say I think I could do a pretty good job myself."

Backs Khrushchev Bid

In a speech at the University of Wisconsin's Steelworkers institute Monday night, Humphrey said he was in agreement with President Eisenhower's invitation to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev for a visit to the United States in September.

"Only good can come from such a visit," Humphrey said. "Khrushchev can see for himself, talk directly with Americans in all walks of life, official and unofficial."

Humphrey said it also is time for political leaders in the U. S. to realize that America is engaged in an economic as well as cold war with communist Russia.

A better understanding of the United States by Russia, Humphrey said, is probably more important than improving U. S. understanding of Russia.

gave hope and cheer up all peace-loving people in the world."

The first reaction from the so-called neutral nations of Asia was also favorable. A spokesman for Prime Minister Nehru's government said India welcomes the visits "as a definite step for promoting greater understanding, lessening of tensions and paving the way for lasting peace."

Diplomatic observers in the Soviet capital cautioned, however, that there was still hard bargaining ahead to bring any results in such major issues as Germany and disarmament.

"Khrushchev has got what he wanted," said one experienced diplomat. "It's up to him to prove his claim that it's much easier for heads of governments to reach agreements than their foreign ministers."

Hopes for Peace
Yugoslav President Tito, currently on the outs with Khrushchev, welcomed the latest moves in the cold war. The Khrushchev-Eisenhower exchange, he said, "must

Nationalists Alarmed

But the Chinese nationalists on Formosa showed dismay. "We hope that President Eisenhower will in no circumstances be fooled by Khrushchev," said the official Central Daily News. "The hope of all oppressed people which that the United States, in making this new move, will stand firm on its moral principles and on its consistent objective of securing freedom for the whole world."

Eisenhower to Meet Devil
Khrushchev," said one Taipei newspaper headline. The United Daily News, an independent paper, said Khrushchev's visit to the United States would be "harmful—definitely of no advantage to the free world."

Officially, however, Chiang Kai-shek's government expressed no misgivings about its chief supporter. A spokesman said: "It is our belief that the United States, in making this new move, will stand firm on its moral principles and on its consistent objective of securing freedom for the whole world."

Communist China meanwhile was notably absent from the chorus of praise on both sides of the Iron Curtain. Peiping radio nearly 24 hours after the first news of the U.S.-Soviet exchange visits had carried only the brief Moscow announcement without comment.

Neenah Board to Investigate Summer School Expansion

Classes in Driver Training, Shop, Home Economics Urged

Neenah—School administrators and board members will investigate possible expansion of summer high school instruction, it was decided at Monday's board of education meeting.

The personal typing class offered this summer had a record enrollment of 92 students in three classes. The program is self-sustaining, with each student paying a $10 fee.

One board member thought the summer months might be a good time for offering a behind-the-wheel driver education class, since some Twin City families are going to Appleton to pay $25 per person for such a program.

Supt. of Schools Harold B. Mennes suggested home economics courses for girls who cannot fit the class into their college preparatory course.

Another board member added that shop classes also might be desirable for a summer instruction program. Mennes was asked to contact Neenah police and the state motor vehicle department for driver training program information.

Summer school classes to assist elementary pupils who have failed also was mentioned. Mennes said that 2 percent of the grade school pupils, or about 50 youngsters, fail. About 10 make up the deficiency through attending Oshkosh or Kaukauna summer schools, or by private tutoring.

Commissioner Frank Hochholzer, board vice president, will head the finance committee, aided by Commissioners Spafford and Gilbertson. Commissioner L. A. Gilbertson, chairman of the textbook and curriculum committee, on which are Commissioners Tollette and Wilcox.

The Birling dairy was awarded the school milk contract with a 7-per cent discount bringing its net price below the other four bidders. Mrs. Elsie Irving, a widow who has taught at Lake Mills, Valders and the last three years at Wauwatosa, was hired to teach in the primary grades.

WIAA Insurance Board members approved the $3,394 contract with the Wisconsin Interscholastic Athletic association to provide insurance coverage for grade and high school pupils and for the athletic program. The first six grades do not pay for the insurance coverage, those in seventh grade and above do.

Annual reports reviewed by the board indicated that the cafeteria had served 18,118 noon lunches, that 206 boys took part in the interscholastic sports program and that the sports program was self-supporting.

The athletic program ended the year with a balance of $6,059, $45 less than at the start of the year.

Ole Jorgensen, athletic director, reported 100 boys took part in football, 50 in basketball, 70 in track, 20 in baseball, 30 in tennis and 25 in cross-country, a new sport for the school last year.

Miss Dorothy Keune, dental hygienist, reported 4,338 children in public and parochial schools had their teeth checked and 866 had defective permanent teeth and 470 defective deciduous teeth. Cavities were filled in 85 per cent of the cases.

He said 1,650 schools were participating in the lunch program and 3,839 schools took part in the milk program. A total of 169,918 students were served by the lunch program in 1958-59 and 361,214 in the

Lunch Program Now 'Big Business,' Watson Tells 800 Delegates

Oshkosh — "The school milk program, which was 27,500,000 type A lunches were served and 57,100,000 half pints of milk purchased in the special milk program. Discussing the relationship between the size of the school lunch program and the necessary "red tape," Watson cited several school districts which were required to refund money for overclaims because of a failure to observe regulations or improper record keeping.

Watson emphasized the importance of administration of the school lunch program. He told the delegates that facilities should be appropriate to the importance of the lunch program. "School administrators must exercise suitable administrative control over the personnel," he went on, adding that "buying and long-range planning must be supervised, analyzed and checked."

Watson suggested that administrators periodically balance their accounts throughout the school year. Such scrutiny of day-to-day operation will operate the program for the welfare of the children, he added.

Forcing Child's Musical Taste May Cause Him to Rebel, Says Composer

There should be no "have to's" in a child's acquiring knowledge and appreciation of good music.

Instead, says Morton Gould, composer and conductor, the child should be so gently guided as to feel that his adventures down the path of musical understanding are voluntary and completely unrelated to any parental supervision. The parent who attempts to force a child to listen to music that he believes will develop the youngster's taste is apt to find that his efforts have the opposite effect. The youngster may well stage a silent rebellion against parental direction and end up by being a devotee of rock-and-roll, says Gould.

It is natural for very young children to respond to rock-and-roll rhythms, as this is a primitive type of music to which their emotions are geared. The composer says his own 4-year-old daughter, Deborah, responds to rock-and-roll music and loves to dance to it.

Discovers Bach

Showing how a youngster will find his way musically, he tells of how his 12-year-old son, David, discovered

Bach. A devotee of modern popular music, David heard several Bach selections during a music class at school, and came home enthusiastically reporting that he had "discovered" what a great guy Bach was.

Then he became interested in the music of other great composers. David's older brother, Eric, is a clarinet player in the high school band but has never shown deep involvement in any particular school or type of music, his father says.

The older of the two Gould girls, however, 9-year-old Abby, turned naturally to the piano, has a sensitive ear for good music and shows a strong feeling for the classical composers.

Says the father of David and Abby, "Had we insisted on David's listening to Bach records at home he probably would never have been so proud of making the so-called discovery himself, and his interest in classical music would not have been so spontaneously awakened. I believe that if we had forced Abby to take piano lessons she would not have developed the same strong feeling that she now has for the piano and for the music of the classical composers."

Play Records

However, Gould believes that creating an atmosphere of good music in the home can be definitely helpful to the development of a youngster's ear. This can be done, he suggests, by playing records which the parents enjoy and letting the youngster make his own decision as to whether to listen or not. Give the youngster his own high fidelity set, he says, and let him select his own records. If he likes a record from the grown-up's library, offer to lend it to him or get him one for his own library.

Ask his opinion about music and don't laugh at him if he says he thinks the rock-and-roll performers are great.

Another suggestion from Gould is to make the young members of the family feel important by inviting them to concerts as you would an adult friend, and letting them decline or accept as they like. A youngster is sure to be flattered by inclusion in such a social occasion.

Nicolet Work May Begin About Sept. 1

Postponed Since 1958; Committee Set Up by Cities

Menasha — Work on Nicolet boulevard, postponed since 1958, will start about Sept. 1, City Engineer M. J. Noth said today. The joint committee on public works, set up by the Menasha and Neenah common councils, is expected to receive bids for surfacing the dividing line street toward the end of August.

Involved in resurfacing Nicolet between Washington and Ahnaip streets, some curb and gutter work and adjustment of manholes and storm sewer catch basins.

The two cities will split the cost of the project, since the street's center line is the boundary between cities. Menasha last year budgeted the project, but Neenah requested Menasha to delay the job until this year, when it could set aside its share.

Total cost is about $10,000. Documents on the project have been approved by Menasha City Atty. William R. Giese and Engineer Noth, and await similar action by Neenah officials. Neenah officials sent the contracts to Menasha June 1 and the Menasha officials made several minor revisions. The contracts were returned to Neenah today.

Mother Gets Children Wins Custody Battle

Chilton — Mrs. Bernice Parie, El Paso, Texas, was awarded custody of her three minor children in an order by Circuit Judge Helmuth F. Arps at a hearing Friday.

Arps ordered the children, who have been living with their grandmother, Mrs. Catherine Parie, Chilton, since August, 1958, be given to their mother by Saturday.

In her petition to the court, Mrs. Bernice Parie, a former Kiel resident, said that she is the estranged wife of Joseph Parie, a former Chilton resident, who now is serving with the armed services at White

Sands Proving Ground, New Mexico.

She said that about Aug. 1, 1958, Joseph Parie removed the children, now aged 11, 8 and 4 years, to the home of his mother.

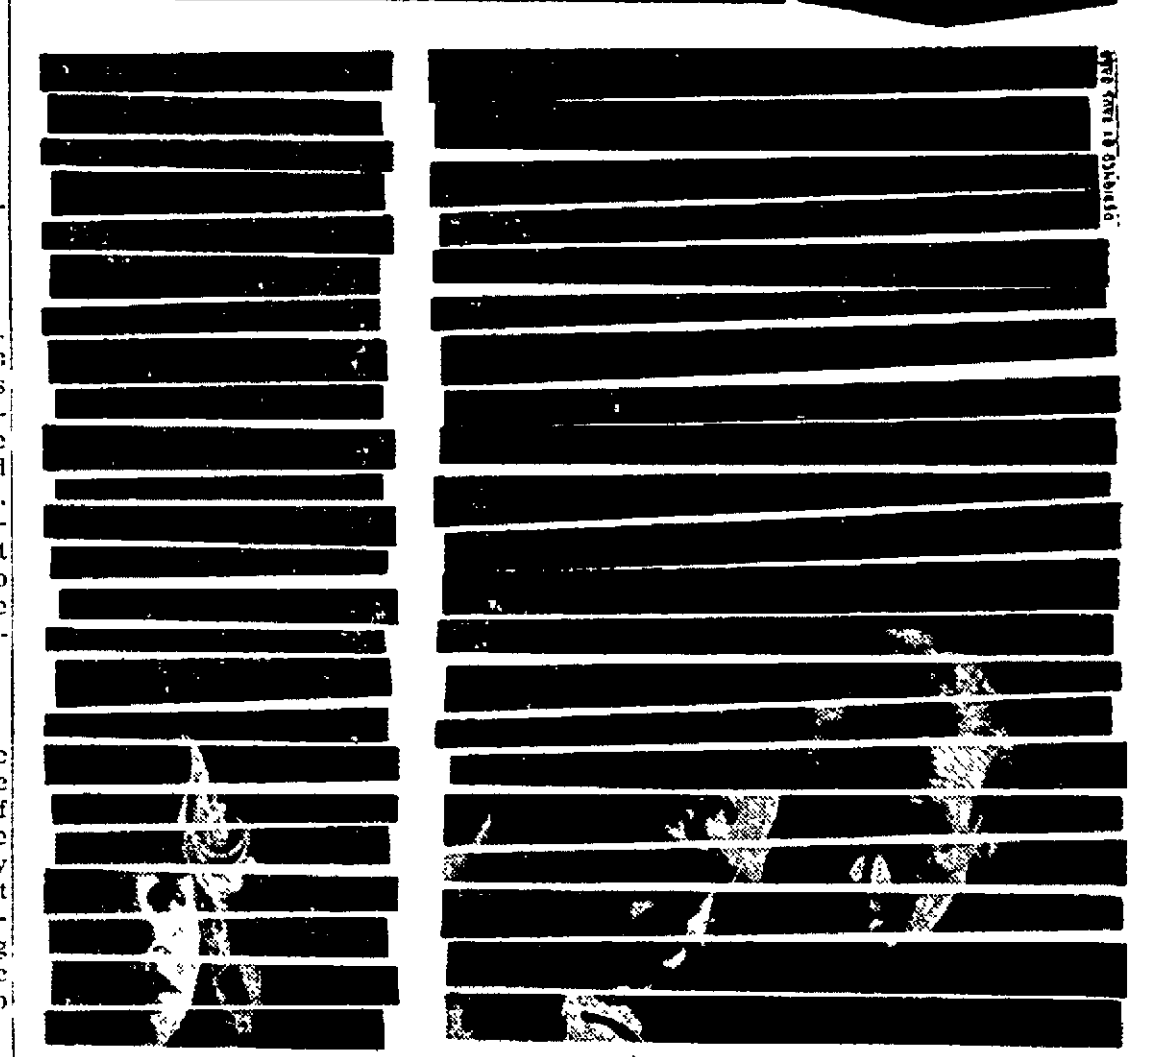

Mrs. Parie alleged that Mrs. Catherine Parie has kept the children confined on her premises on the claim that their father had committed them to the grandmother's custody.

Judge Arps said the grandmother has no legal right to the custody of the children, but that jurisdiction as to the right is in the state of Texas where Mrs. Parie and Joseph Parie reside.

10 Members Of Herb Ring To Face Trial

San Francisco — Ten alleged members of an international herb-smuggling ring will be tried in Memphis, Tenn., a treasury official said here Sunday.

E. F. Minskoff, chief enforcement officer of the treasury's foreign assets control section, said the ring smuggled more than $1 million worth of Chinese herbs into the United States via devious routes that began in either Hong Kong or red China and passed through Canada.

Minskoff said indictments against the men were unsealed Friday in Memphis. He said Royal Canadian Mounted police still sought the operation's Canadian kingpin, whom he identified as Henry Edwin Chad, and two of his aides, Sydney Rock and Ernest Buchamer.

Also indicted by a federal grand jury were Joe Quong, alias Joe Wilson, of Chicago and Memphis, described as the U.S. boss; his two sons, Joe Wing Wah and Joe Wing Fong; and Lun Fee Lee, all per or language. Varied Sandwriting Games Can be Played at Beaches

BY CAPPY DICK

Sand writing is great fun at the beach or in any pile of sand. Lots of word games can be played.

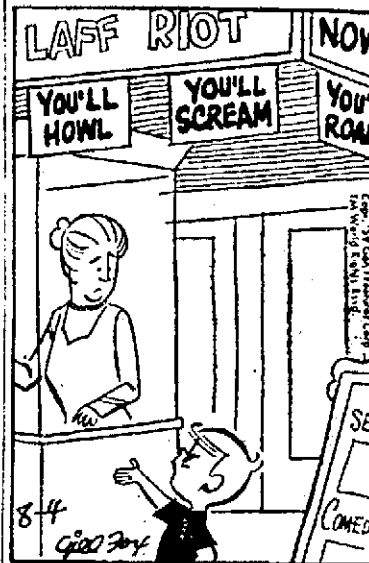

One game is a puzzle. A player prints a word in the sand, but makes only parts of the letters. The other players must try to guess what the word is and, with the use of a few strokes, complete the letters.

For example, there are two words represented by the unfinished letters in Figures 1 and 2. By adding another upside down "V" to the first letter in Figure 1, you form an "M." By closing the curve of the second letter you get an "O." By adding an upside-down "L" to the third letter you will form "U." By putting another curve on the small "C" you will form an "S" and sand.

If more than two want to play, the game can be played on paper; the same method is followed when playing it in sand.

Foxes Fall, 4-3, in 10 Innings, Return Home Wednesday

Jim Lynn Drives in Winning Run Off Reliever Earl Furlow

Lincoln, Neb. — Jim Lynn drove a run-scoring single to center in the tenth inning Monday night to give Lincoln a 4-3 victory over the Fox Cities Foxes.

The Foxes, who are idle today, return to Three-I league action Wednesday. They will open a 3-game series with Topeka at Goodland field.

The Foxes lost their final series of the season at Lincoln's Sherman field, two games to one, but finished with a 5 to 4 over-all bulge. It was Fox Cities' seventeenth loss in 27 games decided by one run.

Starting fast, the Foxes got all their runs and half of their six hits off Lincoln ace Al Brice in the first inning. Bennie Siquefield singled, Jim Johnston walked and Hernan Villa singled home the first run. Johnston scored on Phil Condu's ground-out. After "Chuck" Weatherspoon flied out, Dickie Harris singled in run No. 3.

Brice, who fanned 13 enroute to his tenth win, bolted.

Spahn to Duel San Francisco's McCormick

Braves Open Vital Series on Coast Tonight

San Francisco — League-leading San Francisco, bolstered by rookie Willie McCovey, gets the acid test tonight as the Giants open a 3-game series with the Milwaukee Braves.

The Giants lead Los Angeles by only half a game and the Braves are just another half-game behind the Dodgers.

It was just a year ago that the Giants, one game behind the Braves in another National league spine-tingler, moved into Milwaukee for a 4-game series. The Braves swept the set, dropping the Giants five games behind. The San Franciscans never threatened again.

Battle of Lefties

Last year the Giants, finishing 12 games behind Milwaukee, beat the Braves only six times in 22 games. This year San Francisco has won five of 14 encounters.

It'll be a battle of left-handers tonight. Giant Manager Bill Rigney will send his young Mike McCormick (10-8) against the Braves' veteran Warren Spahn (14-10).

The Braves, straightened out again after their longest losing streak since 1953, have now won eight of their last 10 games. The Giants, thanks mostly to their lanky new first baseman, McCovey, are on a 4-game winning streak.

McCovey was brought up Thursday after the San Franciscans lost four straight. With McCovey hitting .500, they haven't lost since.

Demons Boost Three-I Lead

Stop Braves, 4-3; Topeka Regains Second Place

By the Associated Press

Red-hot Des Moines widened its Three-I league lead to two games by beating Cedar Rapids, 4-3, Monday night, for their fifteenth victory in the last 19 starts.

Ed Hughes pitched a 6-hitter as all four Des Moines runs were unearned. Three Cedar Rapids errors in the seventh inning helped the Demons erase a 2-1 deficit with three runs. Lincoln beat the Fox Cities, 4-3, in 10 innings.

Topeka moved back into second place by tripping Green Bay, 3-2, on Jim Niemann's 2-run homer in the eighth inning. Andres Ayon hurled a 5-hitter for the Reds and struck out 12.

Burlington's 7-run fourth inning handed Sioux City an 8-4 setback. The big spurge included seven walks.

Players Indifferent

'Glad We Came, Glad We Won', Says Casey

Los Angeles — "We're glad we came out here, we're glad we won," said Casey Stengel after his American League team knocked off the National league, 5-3, Monday.

Lounging against a rubbing table in the dressing room, Stengel shouted over the knot of sports writers clustered around him:

All Had Part

"Everyone had a part in it. Any man I didn't use, I want to apologize to. I couldn't use everybody."

Yankee "Yogi" Berra, who hit a 3-run homer far over the 333-foot right field barrier,

But Frank Malzone of the Red Sox, who dropped a home run just over the left field screen, said with a laugh:

"Hitting a home run here was a lot easier than I thought it would be."

Down the hall in the National league dressing room, Manager Fred Haney said quietly:

"It was a good game. We just got beat, that's all. We had a couple of chances to score and we missed."

NL's Pennant Struggle Could be Cleared Considerably This Week

White Sox and Indians Embark On Long Tours

By the Associated Press

Now that the player pension fund is rolling in crisp All Star dollars, the athletes can turn their undivided attention to the bread and butter realities of the pennant races.

The National league struggle could be cleared up considerably in the next few days when the third-place Milwaukee Braves visit both the leading San Francisco Giants and the runner-up Los Angeles Dodgers.

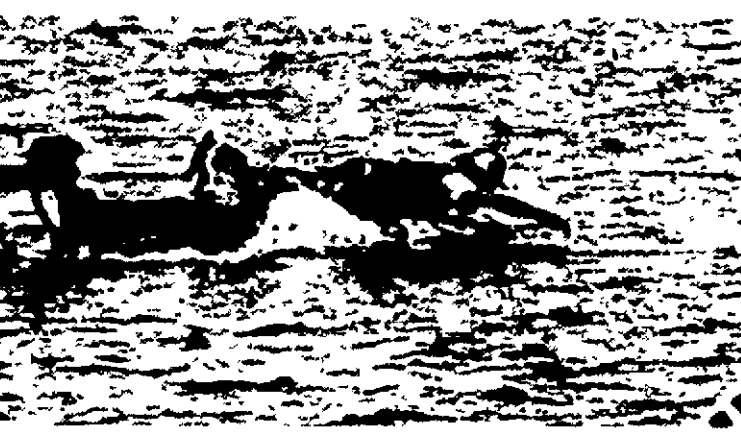

The Giants, clinging to a half game lead over the Dodgers, entertain the Braves for the next three days, starting tonight. Milwaukee then moves on to the Coliseum for two big weekend games.

Long Road Trips

The 2-team race in the American league in which Chicago holds a 3-game edge over the Cleveland Indians, finds both clubs stepping off on long road trips.

Chicago will play 13 games at Baltimore, Washington, Detroit and Kansas City before returning home for the final visit of the Eastern teams. Cleveland will hit the same cities in a different rotation for a total of 14 consecutive road games.

Unless both the White Sox and Indians collapse completely on this journey, they should have things all to themselves the rest of the way. Baltimore and Kansas City, tied for third, are 11 just didn't make as many runs," said Haney, whose National league club beat the Americans, 5-4, in the other All-Star game this season in Pittsburgh.

Haney said it's difficult to win when his team's No. 3, gear and prepared to return 4 and 5 hitters, the meat of the batting order, fail to hit.

Hank Aaron, Willie Mays and Ernie Banks went 0 for 11. There were no shouts of victory nor tears of remorse in players, winners and losers, appeared quietly indifferent as they dressed, packed their gear and prepared to return to the wars in their respective leagues.

Ferguson Returned to Packers; Ken Russell Quits Training Camp

Howie Has Chronic Shoulder Injury; Romine And Meilinger Get New Offensive Positions

Green Bay—Fullback Howie Ferguson, traded by the Green Bay Packers to Pittsburgh last week for a draft choice, is being returned to the Bays. But, it's doubtful he'll be playing in Green Bay.

Ferguson has a chronic shoulder injury that could break down at any moment. The Steelers were aware of this but Coach "Buddy" Parker said he wanted to have a look.

The disposition of Ferguson was to be worked out today by Packer Coach - General Manager Vince Lombardi. Howie was reportedly on his way to Green Bay but had not reported this morning.

Russell Quits

Ken Russell, the veteran tackle obtained from the Lions in exchange for Ollie Spencer, has left camp. He had been complaining about the work load.

Lombardi said "we may get another player for Spencer, or a draft choice."

Two other new tackles leaped into action Monday—Dick Emerich and Tom Saidock. Emerich, of West Chester State teachers, was the Packers' thirtieth draft choice and is trying out after a brief stretch in Canada. Saidock comes from the Eagles at the cost of a draft choice.

Steve Meilinger and Al Romine, a couple of holdovers from the 1958 Packer season, went to new positions today as Lombardi readied the Bays for the annual intra-squad game in City stadium Saturday afternoon.

Meilinger, a slot back last year and an end to start the current training, has been shifted to fullback.

Romine, a defensive back by trade, went to offensive

54,982 See 5-3 Contest In Coliseum

BY BOB MYERS

Los Angeles—The count stood all square at one apiece for the 1959 All-Star classics between the American and National league today. And back to the formal pennant races went the ballplayers.

Manager Casey Stengel's American leaguers pinned a 5-3 defeat on Fred Haney's Nationals as a paid attendance of 54,982, fourth highest in the game's history, sat through the game in sun-baked Memorial coliseum Monday.

Average 5-4 Loss

The victory avenged a 5-4 setback absorbed by the Stengel men in the first All-Star game July 7 at Pittsburgh.

The game grossed $283,120 and netted, after taxes, $262,336.47.

The Pittsburgh game grossed $229,636 and netted $194,303.46.

Individual honors went to catcher Yogi Berra of the Yankees, whose 2-run blast off Dodger pitcher Don Drysdale put the Americans in front, 3-1, in the third inning for a lead they never relinquished.

Oddly enough, this was Yogi's 11th All-Star appearance but the first time he had hit for extra bases.

Sluggers Throttled

Collective honors went to the American league pitchers who throttled such sluggers as Hank Aaron, Ernie Banks, and Willie Mays.

The winning pitcher was Jerry Walker of Baltimore, 20, who just a year ago was laboring for Knoxville, Tenn. in the Class A Sally league.

Walker, inserted into the squad the afternoon before, yielded but one run and two hits in the three innings he worked.

The loser was strikeout artist Drysdale, who surrendered homers to Frank Malzone of the Red Sox and Berra.

"This was a great day for the Italians," said Yogi, referring to the home run by Rocky Colavito of Cleveland in the eighth inning and Malzone's four bagger.

Sharing pitching honors with Walker were Early Wynn, Hoyt Wilhelm, Billy O'Dell and Cal McLish.

For the Nationals, Dodger Jim Gilliam and Frank Robinson were the only batters to reach base.

Rosensohn Resigns From Promoting Body As Result of Feud

Johansson's Advisor Demands Full Probe Of Situation Before Return-Bout Decision

BY WHITNEY MARTIN

New York —(AP)— There was every indication today the Floyd Patterson - Ingemar Johansson heavyweight championship rematch would come off Sept. 22 as tentatively scheduled, but where it will be held and how the arrangements will be handled are in the vague category.

The two remaining directors of Rosensohn Enterprises, Inc.—Vincent Vellela and Irving Kahn—admittedly have no experience in fight promotion. Vellela says his interest primarily is in the finances. Kahn, as president of Teleprompter, incorporated, is interested primarily in the ancillary rights including television, radio and movies.

Sell For $75,000 This situation developed Monday when Bill Rosensohn, president of Rosensohn enterprises, severed all connection with the organization and said he would sell his one third interest for $75,000 to anyone who cared to buy.

Rosensohn's resignation came as an outgrowth of a feud with Vellela which came into the open last Friday. Vellela, who holds two thirds of the stock, elected Kahn as a third director of the enterprises. Kahn and Rosensohn have not been on the best of terms.

Rosensohn, front man and ostensibly promoter of the first fight in June in which Johansson scored a knockout in the third round, said he had offered Vellela and Kahn a chance to buy his stock, or allow him to buy Vellela's stock for $150,000.

Vellela said he would not buy or sell without first going over the company's books. Vellela said the promotional loss on the first fight was "closer to $70,000 than the announced $40,000" and that the promotional expense was close to $300,000, a figure he termed fantastic.

Rosensohn said he is entirely out of the picture now, although Rosensohn Enterprises holds Johansson's contract for the return fight.

In Sweden, the champion's advisor, Edwin Ahlquist, said: "We very much regret the resignation of Bill Rosensohn, and we are going to demand a full investigation into the whole business before any decision on the return match is passed."

Ahlquist also said he and Johansson are not satisfied with the accounts rendered so far of the income from the title fight.

"If we don't get a full account of the first match and a completely clear picture of the distribution of the income from the next one within a reasonable time, we will turn to the New York Boxing commission," Ahlquist added.

Although refusing to discuss how Ingemar feels about boxing for a promoter other than Rosensohn, Ahlquist said: "We have no reason to obstruct plans for a return match if we get the figures we want."

Kahn said the site of the rematch probably will be announced by Aug. 10 and that the two fighters would have ample time to reach their peaks by Sept. 22. Patterson left Monday for an undisclosed upstate New York point to start road work.

American Pro Grid League Won't Raid

New Loop to Shoot For Sparkling Rookie Talent

Houston, Texas —(AP)— The Embury American Football league claims it will shoot for the sparkling rookies and not raid its rival National Football league for material. Sponsors say simple mathematics will bring the rookies into their camp.

"We think we have an advantage over the NFL," Dallas franchise holder Lamar Hunt says.

"We can tell a boy it's no sense in signing with Pittsburgh, for example. For $8,000 say, he can sign with Dallas and be sure of making the team."

Drafts 30

Hunt pointed out that each NFL club drafts 30 players (the number has been cut to 20 for the 1959 draft). Of the 30, about four or five make the grade.

"If he's a rookie," said Hunt, "chances are 6-1 he won't make it."

Hunt was here for Houston oilman K. S. "Bud" Adams' announcement that he, Adams, will head the Houston entry.

Only Houston and Dallas thus far have identified the individuals associated with their franchises. Other members of the new loop are New York, Denver, Los Angeles and Minneapolis-St. Paul.

Giants Boast Two-Pronged Grid Offense

Cleveland Browns' McCormick Will Have Surgery

By the Associated Press

The New York Giants have the makings of a 2-pronged offense built behind the quarterbacking of Frank Gifford on the one hand, and the combined talent of "Chuck" Conerly or George Shaw at quarterback and Gifford at halfback.

This is what Coach Jim Lee Howell is working on these days at the Giants' Woonoski, Vt., National Football league training camp.

The Cleveland Browns received a jolt when they learned offensive tackle and Capt. Mike McCormick must undergo an operation of a right knee injured a week ago and will miss six to eight weeks. Elsewhere around training camps:

Los Angeles Rams: lost halfback Tom Wilson for Saturday's exhibition with Detroit with a knee injury not as serious as originally feared.

Washington Redskins: lost tackle Bob Tonniff for a week with a knee injury and learned that linebacker Larry Morris is staying out of pro football this year to open an insurance business.

Pittsburgh Steelers: had rookie tackle John Perkins of Mississippi Southern taken to hospital after collapsing in his room, ostensibly from heat prostration.

No Pennant Talk Yet

Hot Chisox Have 26-5 Record In 1-Run Decisions This Year

Chicago —(AP)— The Chicago White Sox are sitting pretty and they know it.

But nobody is saying a word. The tipoff to their real attitude is that all questions concerning the American league pennant are being pushed aside with the stock answer:

"We have to play them one at a time."

The Sox are the hottest team in baseball. They lead second-place Cleveland by three games after sweeping a double-header from Washington, 3-2 and 9-3, Sunday.

They've won six in a row, 11 of their last 12 and are 19-5 since the All-Star break.

inson of Cincinnati smacked home runs.

The contest, which lasted 2 hours and 42 minutes, had its moments.

One came with the introduction of the All-Stars. It was hard to say which, if either, drew the biggest hand—big Ted Williams or Stan Musial.

Of course, such Los Angeles idols as Gilliam, Wally Moon, Drysdale and Charlie Neal drew hearty applause. But Williams, in his sixteenth All-Star game, and Musial in his record seventeenth, were the sentimental heroes.

Malzone's homer came in the second inning, which tied the score at 1-1 after Johnny Temple had doubled in the first and scored later on Aaron's sacrifice fly.

In the third, Nellie Fox singled and scored on Berra's homer.

One man who didn't even play got a tremendous welcome. A fellow sitting in a box back of third base, name of Ty Cobb.

ed the door after that. The only remaining hits he permitted were a third-inning single by Condu, a seventh-inning single by Jack Feller and a ninth-inning single by Weatherspoon.

In that ninth-inning situation, Feller walked to put two men on, but substitute shortstop Hector Maestri hit into a double play. In the ninth, the Foxes got two men on base — on a walk and an error — but again failed to score.

The Chiefs counted two in the first off starter Gary Mitchell on singles by Lynn and Mike Hersberger, a walk and an error on Vila. Lynn tied the score in the fifth when he singled home Lehman, who had doubled ahead of him.

In the tenth, George Olson, in his first appearance after being brought up from the Class D Nebraska State league, pinch-hit off reliever Earl Furlow. "Bunk" Warren ran for him. Lehman sacrificed. Bacon drew an intentional walk. Lynn came through with his third hit to hand the Foxes their sixth loss on the 9-game road trip.

Post Office Department Changes Dental Issue Design

By Syd Kronish

It isn't often that the post office department changes the design of a stamp just prior to its issuance and after previously announcing details of its description. But Postmaster General Arthur E. Summerfield did just that when he revised the 4-cent Dental Health commemorative to be placed on first day sale in New York City on Sept. 14.

"For purposes of artistic expression," the head of the young girl has been redrawn, giving her a feather hair cut style rather than a dutch cut. The face also has been tilted upwards.

The silhouette figures of a boy and girl at play have been enlarged and the commemorative inscription "American Dental Association 1859-1959" have been removed from the central portion of the design and placed across the top.

The combined Philatelic Exposition of Chicago and the biggest stamp show in the Midwest, has been scheduled for Chicago Aug. 26-30. Highlighting the 5-day stamp show will be the first day cover ceremonies introducing the Pan American Games issue on Aug. 27.

The Australian government reports that a special postage stamp will be issued in 1962 to honor the seventh British Empire and Commonwealth Games, to be held in Perth, Western Australia, that year.

Chicago has won 62 games with 52 to go. If they play .500 ball, winning only 26 of live green stamp marking the 40th anniversary of the International Labor Organization. The design features the sculpture "Triumph of Labour" by D. P. Roy Chowdhury, and the triangular seal of the ILO.

To mark the opening of the Pan American games in Chicago on Aug. 27, the United States will issue a 10-cent air mail stamp featuring a runner holding a flaming torch. The red, white and blue stamp will go on first day sale in Chicago that date.

Collectors desiring first day cancellations of the stamp may send addressed envelopes, together with remittance to cover the cost of the stamps to be affixed, to the Postmaster, Chicago 7, Ill. The outside envelope to the postmaster should be endorsed "First Day Covers Pan American Games Stamp."

In connection with the forthcoming Pan American games in Chicago, the Republic of Panama will issue a special set of stamps depicting living athletes from various Pan American countries. The sports to be shown are tennis, swimming, boxing, baseball, track and basketball.

This is a copy of the special Pan American games stamp issued by the Post office, June 26. The stamp is red, white and blue. The games will begin Aug. 27 in Chicago.

the rest, they will have won 88 games. A similar pace by Cleveland in its last 50 games would give them 85 victories.

Baltimore with 48 to go would have to scoot at a .36-12 pace to top Chicago. Kansas City, with 52 to go, would have to play .38-14 ball. New York with 52 to play would need a .39-13 record and Detroit in 48 games would need a .38-10 record to beat Chicago's .500 pace.

A catch-up rally by any of those clubs would mean playing better than .700 ball the rest of the way. Only two of them (Baltimore and Kansas City) have managed to hit the .500 level.

VFW Registers Pair of Wins In LL Action

The VFW defeated the Teamsters, 8-5, and Jenkel Oil, 9-5, in recent Appleton Little league Western division games.

In the victory over the Teamsters, VFW tallied eight runs in the first two innings and then coasted in. Dave Miller was the winning pitcher, allowing just four hits, striking out nine and walking nine. Dressang and M. Gregorius tolled for the losers.

In the game with Jenkel Oil, Dave Juve got the victory, walking four and striking out two over five innings. Ron Shelly, the loser, went the distance, striking out 12.

Badger Highways counted a run in the bottom of the ninth to shade the Teamsters, 3-2, in another Western division contest. Moen and Ebben divided pitching duties for the winners, striking out 17 between them. Each socked a pair of hits.

'Pumpsie' Green Makes Fenway Park Debut Against KC Tonight

Boston — (AP)— "Pumpsie" Green, once the center of a racial protest, makes his Fenway park debut tonight against Kansas City.

Green, the first Negro player ever to play for Boston, was called up from Minneapolis during the Red Sox' recent road trip. Since then he has established himself as a Red Sox regular.

Green was with Boston during spring training, but when he was sent to Minneapolis for further seasoning several groups charged the Red Sox with discrimination. Green stayed out of the controversy. The Red Sox denied the charges and later were cleared of them.

Dad's Roles Numerous On Summer Vacations

BY VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

The Great American Show-off to vacationland—is on the road, and the family is becoming re-acquainted with the 20 or more roles that Dad plays on this annual safari. It is father who becomes the Voice, the Critique Extraordinaire and the Lord High Executioner in the annual trek to get away from it all.

Fathers who haven't spoken to their families in months suddenly come to life, get in the spirit of summer fun down to the last mosquito bite, flat tire, poison ivy and sun burn.

Trouble is that father's sudden switch in routine is likely to upset the tranquility of the rest of the family. The shock of two weeks from work with pay is likely to send the poor man's perspective into outer paid of clean socks, and the dirty ones are full of holes.

KINDLY: You wanted to bring the dog. Feed him. I'm not going to be a dog warden on vacation.

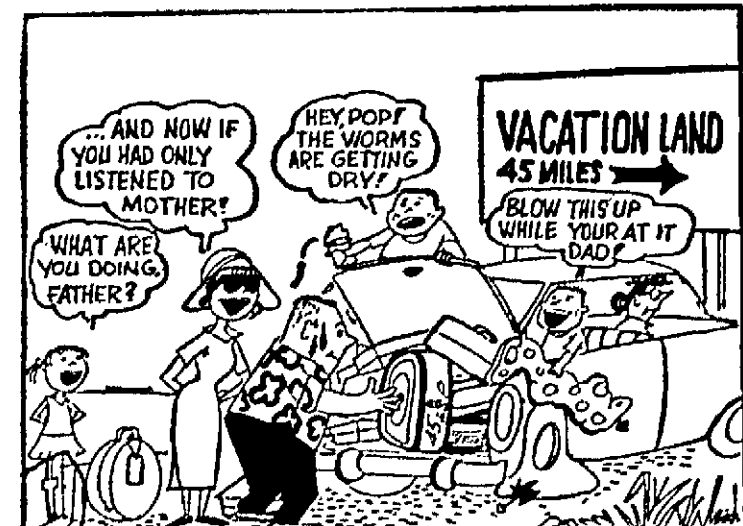

OBSERVANT: See, that's what I call a pretty figure. That gal can really shape up a suit.

MAGNANIMOUS: This vacation is costing a fortune. No more ice cream cones, hot dogs, soda pop.

THOUGHTFUL: Leave the dishes until you get back from the store. The children should help you.

GOURMET: Didn't you put mayonnaise on these sandwiches? You can't taste anything but dry cheese, ham, tomato and lettuce.

INCREDULOUS: You didn't really expect the plumbing to work at a vacation cottage, space. He may not even get it back before he goes back to the old sweat shop.

Here are some of father's faces. Grin and bear it and a good time will be had by all as he takes on his various roles:

FASHION COUNSELOR: Why didja ever buy a pink bathing suit? It doesn't go with those freckles.

GUARDIAN: I thought you were watching the children. Johnny's been in the water for five minutes, almost over his head.

ECONOMICAL: This is a good spot to buy a fishing rod. I can use a spare anyway, and it'll be Tommy's when he grows up.

INQUISITIVE: To whom are you writing all those post-cards? You never mail them anyway.

FINANCIER: What happened to the $5 I gave you yesterday? You haven't paid the tolls on this trip.

SOLICITOUS: Who put that toad in Mommy's bed? Get it out of there right away before I lose my temper.

ABUSED: I haven't got a did you? Why worry about it for the short time we'll be here?

MASTER: I'm not going to make a stop now. I warned you all before we left, and it happens all the time.

DESPERATE: I came here to fish, and by jupiter I'm going to do it!

IRRITABLE: I know I said I'd bring the outboard motor, sweaters and life preservers, and I don't want to be reminded of it again.

BUCK PASSER: You use the car all week. Now that we have a flat, where's the jack?

FLANNEL MOUTH: You can't wear a two-piece bathing suit with that tire roll in the middle. Why don't you go on a diet?

GREGARIOUS: I didn't come on this vacation to socialize with a lot of strangers.

SPOIL SPORT: No, I'm not going to stop at every antique shop along the road.

PRESIDENT OF THE VACATION-FOR-MOM CLUB: At breakfast: What time are we having lunch? At lunch: What time are we having dinner? At dinner: I thought you were making a lemon meringue pie.

Diabetes Varies in Patients; So Does Insulin Treatment

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D.

There are a couple of million diabetes patients in the United States, and a lot more whose condition hasn't yet been discovered but will be.

That's a lot of people to be affected by a single disease, and that is why I think the disease is worth further discussion.

In diabetes, the blood sugar level reaches a certain amount — different for different people — and then sugar "spills" into the urine.

Other Factors
But sometimes another factor enters. The urine test may, for example, be taken in the morning and seem high. Yet the real high level of sugar in the blood, may have been present the night before, and be down in normal range by morning! Thus, for a more accurate reading, it is wise that the bladder be emptied, and then another sample taken for testing a short time later.

Likewise the type of insulin in use may make a difference. Protamine zinc insulin is a long-lasting type which has its greatest effect the morning following the morning on which it was injected. Its effect will be weakest, however, late in the day, around supper time.

NPH and globin insulin, on the other hand, have their greatest effect in the late afternoon, after having been taken in the morning. For individuals using these types, the urine test may be negative before supper, yet positive before breakfast, by which time the effect has worn off.

Tailored Combinations
Insulin types vary. So do patients. So there are various types or combinations that can be tailored to the needs of the individual case. Some people require two doses daily; some may benefit by certain combinations.

For readers not at the moment interested in diabetes, I apologize for all this detail.

But it may someday be useful to you, in relation to a relative, perhaps.

I might add that, because of some of varying factors, some doctors do not approve of patients taking their own tests. Doubtless there is a good point involved. However I think it is a good thing for the patient to do this testing, and it helps keep the patient in line in following diet and other health rules.

And besides that, if the patient is doing his own testing, he has every reason to learn the ins and outs, and understand the whole problem better.

Alcoholism
"Dear Dr. Molner: Can you give me any information on alcoholism? Is it hereditary? What can one do to overcome it?" — Myrna."

It isn't hereditary — at all. It is usually (perhaps almost always) the result of someone discovering that the sedative effect, the dulling of the senses, makes him feel good because it relieves him of the tensions, shyness, nervousness, unsureness, guilt, worry, or whatever problem it is that makes it difficult to look life in the face.

The process, not necessarily easy, of looking life square in the face, is one of the first steps toward curing alcoholism. I strongly recommend Alcoholics Anonymous, as well as the fine alcoholism clinics which have been established in quite a few cities.

Why suffer from sinus trouble? Much can be done to help you, and it is explained in my booklet, "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble." To receive your copy, write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover handling.

Officers said two of the Negroes were trying to help Joe Duckett, 14, swim across the ditch when Duckett began to go under. The Holmes boy leaped to his aid but drowned. Another Negro, Odell Wor-

Mr. Glenn Arthur
Advertising Director
Post-Crescent
Appleton, Wisconsin

Dear Mr. Arthur:

We would like to state, as we go into our third week of the Sherry Swapping Bee, that our sales volume continues to rise!

The impact of the spot color page ad in the Post-Crescent at the start of our sale was very effective and reached people as far away as 65 miles.

This might sound ridiculous to you, but last week we advertised an actual shortage of used cars. Today, we are swamped with a variety of late models that have been traded to us during our Swapping Bee Sale.

Because of the effectiveness of our Swapping Bee Sale, it will be continued during the entire month of August and our salesmen will continue buzzing a honey of a deal, both on new and used cars.

We appreciate the cooperation from your Mr. Will Olsen in preparing the campaign designed for this event. The methods of producing color with a minimum of production costs encourages us to consider its use in the days ahead.

Again, take our word for it...COLOR advertising in the Post-Crescent gets results!

Cordially yours,

Aircraft and Some Electronics Lead Moderate Decline

New York—(AP)—Oils held their ground while aircraft sold off rather sharply as the stock market underwent a moderate decline early this afternoon.

The drop in aircraft, and also of some electronics, was ascribed by brokers to belated recognition of the chance that the exchange of visits between President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Khrushchev may ease cold war tensions.

The immediate news Monday had no recognizable impact on the market for prominent publication since then has evidently had its effect on defense issues.

The rest of the market backed away gently from the level of its latest historic highs. Steels were narrowly mixed and motors little changed except for Chrysler which dropped a fraction.

Douglas Aircraft and Martin Co. slipped well over a point apiece. United Aircraft and General Dynamics were down about a point each.

Radio Corp. was traded heavily and down a point or more. Texas Instruments was down well over a point.

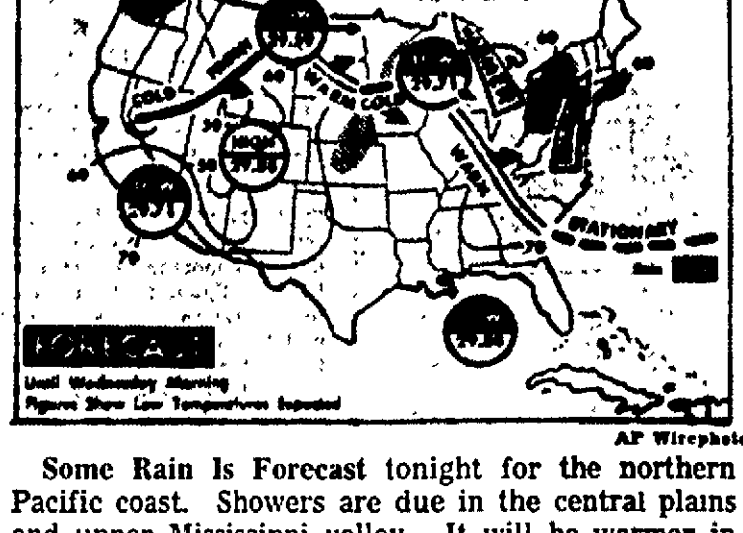

Polaroid raced ahead more than 4. Clorite jumped more than a point.

General Tire dropped about 2 and Goodrich around a point.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was down 50 cents to $235.30, with the industrials down $1.10, the rails down 10 cents and the utilities down 10 cents.
